Man Crushed

Daniel Donnellan, 60-year-old Huntington ave. garage attendant, was crushed to death when this car, which he was moving from the basement, suddenly rolled back as the elevator started its ascent. A day attendant, on arriving at the garage this morning, discovered the car in this position, with Donnellan dead at the wheel.

Ban Ditched Plane Airline From Sky

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (INS) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today suspended operations of American International Airways, owners of the flying boat Bermuda Sky Queen, which came down Tuesday in the North Atlantic. The action prevents American International from engaging in any form of air transportation.

The CAB suspended the airline's letter of registration because "it appeared to the Board that the carrier had recently engaged in foreign air transportation of persons for which irregular air carriers have not had authority."

The Bermuda Sky Queen was on a chartered flight from Poole, England, bound for New York and Baltimore.

CAB said that while the order of suspension is effective immediately American International is required to file an answer within 10 days. The CAB added:

"The question of permanent revocation and any necessary further order will be assigned for public hearing before a board examiner."

C. A. B. Probe Here In Plane Loss at Sea

As George Gay, Civil Aeronautics Board regional director, left New York today to set the stage here for an inquiry on the Bermuda Sky Queen's near-disaster in mid-ocean, more details of terror and heroism were radioed from the Coast Guard Cutter Bibb, which is expected to dock here Sunday morning with the 69 passengers and crew it rescued from the forced down flying boat.

The supplementary accounts indicated medical attention will be needed by some of the women passengers who were scooped from death in 35-foot seas. Hysteria, shock and exposure took a toll from a number of the rescued, it was revealed.

BIBB'S CREW SOLEMN

Another development was a radioed recommendation by the Bibb's skipper, Paul Cronk of Waban, that a Treasury commendation and ribbon be awarded to Lt. (j. g.) Clarence Hall of Avon, for "great skill, endurance and daring" in saving the plane's passengers.

Cronk also recommended a citation for a young seaman, Ralph J. Keller, of Farhope, Ala., who dived into the raging seas to rescue a 61-year-old Los Angeles woman after she had been washed overboard from a lifeboat. She was Mrs. May D. Last.

The after effects of the rescue, as the passengers are carried toward this city, have rendered the Bibb's crew solemn despite their pride in contributing to the Coast Guard's valorous history, new messages reveal.

ATLANTIC EPIC

It was becoming apparent almost hourly that when the whole story of the Bibb's rescue is told and its still shaken passengers are restored to their families, the rescue of the Bermuda Sky Queen's personnel will be one of the Atlantic's epics.

Mayor Hynes and a city welcoming delegation will go down the harbor on police and fireboats to salute the Bibb. When the vessel berths, the municipal welcomers will go aboard and present its personnel with a mahogany plaque commemorating their heroism. All waterfront establishments equipped with whistles have been asked to turn loose for the occasion.

Elected CIO Head 8th Time, Murray in Tears at Ovation

Philip Murray, head of the powerful Steelworkers Union, was re-elected to his eighth successive term as president of the CIO by acclamation today in a 15-minute demonstration stopped only by the playing of the national anthem.

The 604 delegates to the organization's ninth constitutional convention, which today ended its five-day meeting in the Hotel Bradford here, cheered his unopposed nomination by Jacob S. Potofsky, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who called Murray the "greatest labor leader in the world." They pounded tables, slammed steel trays against table legs, heaved table cloths, tossed torn paper in the air and finally marched, Indian-file, around the hall.

Climax to the harmony which has characterized the convention was produced by R. J. Thomas, vice-president of the United Auto Workers, who declined renomination as national CIO vice-president, thus permitting the automatic election to that post of O. A. Knight, head of the Oil Workers Union.

Thomas' decision left the way clear for him to battle his old enemy Walter P. Reuther, present UAW head, who remained as one of nine CIO national vice-presidents. Election of officers in the UAW is scheduled for next month.

Murray accepted his reelection with tears streaming down his face as the band broke into "Loch Lomond" in a tribute to his Scotch ancestry.

After pledging himself to battle the forces of reaction in the halls of Congress where "evil men and evil-minded people" pass legislation such as the Taft-Hartley Law, Murray rejected the latest invitation of AFL President William Green to return to that labor organization.

The CIO head referred also to an earlier invitation from "that other bulging man," John L. Lewis," sitting by the side of the road and lamenting his position."

"We want unity," said Murray in a reference to his own invitation to the AFL to join with the CIO in political action, "but the CIO is not willing to make a sacrificial goat out of itself. We don't want to go through the process of destruction.

In a final gesture before the convention was adjourned, Murray offered to bargain collectively with management "in good will and in good faith" without governmental interference.

Also re-elected without opposition was James Carey, incumbent secretary-treasurer of the CIO.

Just before the Murray ovation, the merger of the United Railroad Workers and the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers was announced jointly by the heads of those organizations.

The five-day meeting ends with a dance tonight in the Hotel Bradford. Funds for a banquet, originally scheduled but cancelled, have been donated to supply food and clothing for needy Europeans.

Dangerous Storm Moving North From Puerto Rico

Execute 52 Reds In Greek Slayings

ATHENS, Oct. 17 (INS) — Fifty-two Greek Communists were put to death today for participating in the slaying last May of a high police official and five Greek air force officers.

Court-martialled and convicted last month, the executed men plotted with Greek rebels to seize power in Salonika. They also were accused of terrorist activities.

LUDWIGSBURG, Germany (with the U. S. constabulary)—Hchenasberg's Hill is a geographical wart rising high above the surrounding flatlands of Wuerttemberg Province. It is shaped like a scoop of ice cream and called the "humpback of democracy" (Demokratenbuckel). It has a tradition of bloodshed, intrigue and imprisonment dating back to the year one. An ancient fortress crowns its five-acre crest, surrounded by moulding walls, deep moats and gloomy posterns. They say it takes only five minutes to climb up the hill, but a lifetime to get down again.

German police (Staatspolizei) guard the succession of entries with carbines. There are sentries sitting with machineguns in watch towers.

One doesn't get into Hohenasberg's castle (War prison camp No. 76) with just a smile and a clean shirt. You must be endorsed by Ludwigsburg's Military Government, cleared by our Counter Intelligence and appraised by the U. S. control officer, Capt. Claude L. Gardner. Then, if your credentials are sanitary, they'll admit you through a series of mildewed tunnels and steel gates to the most dreaded bastille in the zone where more than 200 of Hitler's ex-lords and body masters have cooled for 31 months. They are men who once lived amid luxury, pomp and power and now are reduced to living little better than bums in a flophouse mission. Their quarters are cramped, their clothes threadbare, their food meager.

SIXTEENTH CENTURY TOWER

There are only two Americans there, Capt. Gardner and a Bostonian named Alfred Wertheim of 441 Washington st., Dorchester, a Counter Intelligence man who speaks many languages and screens the prisoners. The rest of the prison staff, from the commandant, Robert Stern, down, are Germans who treat the ex-Nazi bigwigs with a deference that irks the two Americans.

I passed through a mouldy tunnel under the 16th century clock tower and the studded steel gates to the prison yard, a quadrangle formed by medieval Gothic buildings and high stone parapets. Capt. Gardner, a former air force officer, takes pride that the fort has never been taken by assault, nor has any prisoner ever escaped. For nearly 1000 years this has been a penitentiary where tribal chiefs, feudal barons and provincial kings incarcerated people they didn't like. In the center of the compound, among the inmates' vegetable gardens, is the "hanging tree," a gnarled old elm without foliage which once served

Lone Bandit Gets $4500

A lone gunman thrust a pistol in the face of Joseph Vitale, 57, Jeffries st., East Boston, today as he sat in a car in front of the East Boston cafe where he is employed by his brother. The bandit snatched a paper parcel containing $4500 just obtained from a Chelsea bank.

Vitale, brother of Anthony Vitale, owner of the Brick Bar Cafe, Central sq., East Boston, had just taken the money from the Lincoln National Bank, Broadway, Chelsea, as was his custom every Friday. The money is used to cash the checks of workmen in the area.

In the car with Vitale when the gunman calmly walked to the side of the machine was Joseph Rafanello, Chelsea st., East Boston, who had driven Vitale to and from the bank.

The gunman — round - faced, leather-jacketed and dungaree-clad—leaned into the car, the pistol in Vitale's face, reached for the package and said:

"I'll take that. Give it to me and don't start any trouble or I'll blow your brains out."

Without waiting to be handed the package, the gunman snatched it, turned and ran to a parked black sedan, its trunk door raised to hide the registration plate. He sped down Border st. in the direction of Chelsea. Vitale said he saw no one else in the car.

The bandit, he said, was about 30, of medium heigh. and complexion. Police cruisers converged on the area and along the apparent escape route but failed to pick up the trail.

Man in Car Crushed To Death in Elevator

Daniel Donnellan, 68, of Massachusetts ave., Back Bay, was crushed to death early today in the driver's seat of an automobile which rolled off a moving elevator and jammed between the shaft wall and the floor in the Strand Garage, Huntington ave., Back Bay.

Night attendant at the garage, Donnellan was discovered pinned in the wrecked machine, the motor still running, by Michael Grabelese, a fellow employe when he reported for work. Grabelese notified fire and police rescue squads, who were forced to work more than three hours before they could free the machine and release the victim's body.

Dan Donnellan

Dr. J. William Hite, police surgeon, climbed through a window of the car to pronounce Donnellan dead. The victim's chest and shoulders were crushed and the doctor said death apparently came instantly.

Carbon monoxide fumes from the racing motor were so heavy firemen had to don gas masks to enter the basement of the garage where Donellan was hoisting cars to the first floor. Dr. Hite said he may have been dead several hours when found. A priest from St. Cecelia's Church gave the garageman the last rites of the Catholic Church.

George Leary, city elevator inspector, and police officials expressed belief that Donnellan had driven the car onto the elevator and put it in reverse gear. They said he then apparently reached for a rope by which he could operate the elevator lever without leaving the car and that the auto backed off as the lift started to rise.

The rear car wheels remained on the basement floor as the front half of the sedan rose with the elevator and crashed the ceiling of the first floor, crushing Donnellan.

The body was removed to the Southern Mortuary, for an autopsy. Donnellan is survived by an invalid wife, Delia, two sons, Charles, of Walnut st., Newton, and Joseph, of Albermarle st., Back Bay, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Long, of Groom st., Dorchester.

Glad She Lost Leg, Patty, 7, Tells Nurse

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 17—Patty Becker, 7, of Schenectady, N. Y., opened her green eyes wide on awakening today and said to the nurse at her bedside:

"I lost my leg and I'm very glad."

The youngster, who spent a comfortable night after amputation of her withered right limb, was cheered when hospital authorities told her they were suspending the rules to allow her mother to visit her today. Patty was too weak, however, to read any of the hundreds of letters she received from all over the nation praising her for her cheer and courage.

Her leg, crippled since birth, was removed at Springfield Shriners' Hospital yesterday by Dr. Garry Hough to permit fitting with an artificial leg that will enable the child to walk for the first time in her life.

Patty, one of seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Becker, has been hopping around on one leg without the aid of a crutch for several years.

Duxbury Man Held in Gun Attack On Divorced Wife, Her Man Friend

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 17 (AP)—A 30-year-old Duxbury man was held for the grand jury today on charges of assault with intent to murder his divorced wife and her man friend at the woman's home in Duxbury yesterday.

Held was Walter I. Johnson, charged with assault with intent to murder his former wife, Agnes, and her friend, Earl Ford, 35, and with assault with a dangerous weapon and drunkenness.

District court Judge Abraham I. Feinberg declined jurisdiction on all four charges, and set bail at $5000 on each. Johnson did not enter any plea.

Patrolman Earl W. Chandler of the Duxbury police said that Mrs. Johnson told him her former husband came to her home with a shotgun as she baked pies. Her 13-year-old son, Walter, and Ford were sitting in the kitchen.

When Johnson came in she and Ford grappled with him, and the shotgun was discharged, firing its load into the wall, she testified.

Mrs. Johnson suffered powder burns on her left arm. Ford then overpowered Johnson, seized the shotgun, and held the man until police arrived, the court was told.

An all-timer ecord high temperature for the date, 89, was recorded by the weather bureau today shortly after 2 p. m., a mark two degrees hotter than the record established in 1938.

The1 938 high for Oct. 17 was smashed at 1 p. m. today when the mercury reached 88.

With no rain in sight, 10 more small forest fires broke out in Maine, bringing the drouth total there to 50. Two, at Topsham and Hartford, were described by officials as "out of control" and "requiring constant watching and patroling."

Lack of rain in Massachusetts had dried up wells in the Leominster area, where Fire Chief Ernest P. Johnson invited farmers to bring barrels to the nearest fire station and have them filled from hydrants.

Gov. Bradford closed the woods following similar action by the governors of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont in an emergency measure, brought on by the worst drouth here in 33 years. The Governor said he would extend the hunting season when the danger ended.

'I Begged Him to Tell', Says Coombes' Mother to Jury

Mrs. Elizabeth Coombes, slight, bespectacled mother of Robert Coombes, 17, on trial for the sex-slaying of Jacqueline Maxwell, 11, told a Middlesex Superior Court jury today how, torn between love and duty, she telephoned police the morning after the crime to come to their home and get her son.

With a rare display of courage and in a voice clear and strong despite her sorrow, the witness told how insanity ran in the family and how she had opposed her son's release from correctional institutions. She glanced frequently at the defendant as she spoke. He kept his head bowed looking up occasionally with sheepish grins, as Mrs. Coombes testified:

"I sensed something was wrong when he came home Sunday night, March 2, his clothing covered with mud and water. He said a car had splashed him. I put him to bed after he had a hot bath. Next morning, I heard the radio report that Jacqueline's body had been found on a lot in Sterling St. I snapped off the radio and said to my husband:

"Oh, God, it can't be, but I have a feeling something is wrong.'

"I BEGGED HIM TO TELL"

"I went at once to his room. I begged him to tell me the truth. He denied it. But he had been arrested before for annoying girls, once for accosting a girl in the same spot where the body was found. I telephoned the police and told them I thought my boy knew something about the murder and asked them to come and talk with him. They questioned him, examined the clothes he wore the night before, and he left the house with them."

Called as first defense witness, Mrs. Coombes told how she had done her best to raise "Bob a good boy," but how he failed to adjust himself to a normal life, insisted he was "always being picked on," and was moody and inclined to wander by himself.

She testified that three weeks before the crime she had opposed her son's release from Shirley School. Previously, she said, he had been confined to Lyman School and once had been sent to Metropolitan State Hospital for 35 days' observation as the result of sex and assault cases.

Mrs. Coombes said her husband was committed to Danvers State Hospital for a mental illness in 1936 for eight weeks, and recommitted for nine months in 1938 and 1939. She said her aunt is a mental patient at Grafton State Hospital.

HIT BY BOWLING BALL

In 1943 her son was hit by a bowling ball at an alley where he worked and was treated at Malden Hospital for scalp cuts and concussion, the mother testified.

Before Mrs. Coombes was called to the stand, Defense Atty. Edward J. Bushell told the court "the defense will be insanity." He said three nationally prominent psychiatrists would testify. They are Dr. Winifred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., and Drs. Kenneth J. Tillotson and Frederick Wyatt of McLean Hospital. Dr. Overholser is president of the American Psychiatric Ass'n.

EX-POLICEMAN SLAIN

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 17 (AP)—Luis Diaz Hidalgo Gato, 40, who was a national police sergeant during the administration of President Fulgencio Batista, was shot to death today while he was traveling to the interior on a private bus. The assailants fled.

Ask Special Session to Halt Evictions Here

Approximately 100 men and women, including many mothers with babies in their arms, called at the State House today to demand that Gov. Bradford call an immediate special session of the Legislature to pass emergency laws halting evictions and freezing rents.

Spokesmen for the group said the housing situation was "grave," reported that court dockets were overcrowded with eviction cases and charged that "we are going to have trouble in this State this winter" unless emergency legislation is enacted.

Gov. Bradford assigned Harold Stevens, one of his secretaries, to hear the complaints, and at this meeting Stevens arranged for a committee of eight to represent the others at a conference with the Governor.

"I realize the situation. I have no statement to make," the Governor told this committee.

Those who met with the Governor were Julius Ansel, member of the mayor's office staff; Martin Richardson of Boston, Mrs. Selma Dana of Brookline, Florence William of Roxbury, Everett Porter of Boston, Edna Connor of Brighton, Edwin Garfield of Allston and the Rev. Mario Cestaro of the West End.

The conference with Gov. Bradford followed a meeting with Stevens in room 436, where women told how many large families had been evicted from homes in Greater Boston and had no places to go.

During this meeting, one baby cried so long and lustily that he had to be "evicted" from the hearing room. The youngster was placed in his carriage in the corridor.

Ticket Bargain Hunters Warned by Railroads

Bargain hunting commuters who lined up at ticket windows of the North and South Stations to buy blocks of 12-ride tickets before new rates go into effect were doomed to disappointment today as both the B & A and B & M announced such tickets will be honored for only 10 days after the higher rate tickets go on sale.

Monthly ride tickets purchased before the effective date of the 15 to 25 per cent hike in commuter fares will be honored for the ensuing month, the railroads announced.

Both roads said that they expect it will take at least 10 days before the new rates are put into effect. This time is needed, it was explained, for study of the tariff schedules and printing of thousands of new tickets.

PUBLIC WARNED

In warning the commuting public against attempting to save money by loading up with tickets, C. F. Palmer, B. & M. passenger traffic manager, said today:

"The Public Utilities order stipulates that the present 12-ride, five-ride and other multiple ride tickets, other than the monthly tickets, shall be honored for 10 days after the effective date of the increase and, of course, we shall comply with the order.

"Any unused tickets which anyone has after the expiration of the 10-day period will be honored for redemption if presented to the railroad."

Ira G. Rasp, general passenger agent of the B. & A., issued a similar statement for his road.

Both roads are now in the process of studying the commission's order allowing them to raise rates.

They were given 25 per cent on the 60-ride monthly commutation ticket up to a maximum of $6; 25 per cent on the 46-ride students' ticket up to a maximum of $3, and 20 per cent on all other types of commutation tickets with a minimum 15 cent fare.

PROTESTS READY

The commission also authorized the roads to issue a new unlimited 46-ride ticket with an increase of 15 per cent over the present 60-ride ticket rate.

State and civic officials together with commuters crowded Gardner Auditorium to protest the New Haven's petition for the 40 per cent increase on all fares on the Old Colony, and on other branches 25 per cent on "unrestricted" commutation and 12-ride tickets and 15 per cent on "restricted" monthly commutation tickets.

Among the protests were those of the mayors and City Councils of Brockton and Quincy, as well as the communities of Fairhaven, Taunton, Weymouth, Stoughton, North Easton, Hanover and Avon.

DEFICIT CITED

George T. Carmichael, vice-president of the New Haven, told the commission the road asked for the increase for an experimental three months to determine if the New Haven was justified in continuing service.

After the railroad ended its case the commission announced that the hearing would be resumed Thursday at 10:30 a. m. However, Thomas H. Buckley, chairman of a committee group, said he would seek a 30-day postponement to allow his group to obtain additional information for presentation to the commission.

Bark of Small Dog Balks Store Holdup in Cambridge

A small black and white dog named Wags, barking wildly as he dashed out of the back room of a Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, dry-cleaning establishment today, frightened away a would-be holdup man who was threatening Miss Mary Snow of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, a clerk at the store.

Miss Snow told police the man had his hand in his pocket as though holding a gun and had just said: "This is a stick-up" when "Wags" came flying out and the man fled.

She described the man as about 25 years old and said he was wearing a khaki jacket and dark trousers.

Police learned a man fitting that description had tried to rob a hardware store, several doors away, last night but fled when he saw two clerks present, instead of one.

Nab 4 Teeners in School at 2 A. M.

The three vice squad detectives driving slowly by the Abraham Lincoln school, Arlington st., at 2 a. m. today saw a flash of light come from the building. For an hour they searched classrooms, storerooms and basement. Then they went to the roof. Behind a chimney crouched two 14-year-old Charlestown girls and two Roxbury boys, each 15. They sullenly refused to talk at first.

But the girls began to cry and down stairs the story came out. One of the girls had run away from home a month ago. She had been living a street arab's life, sleeping in the hallway and basement of a Columbus ave. building. The other girl had been reported missing four days ago.

They had met the boys in a pickup on the Common. All four had planned to sleep in the school last night. That flash of light the cops had seen came from a refrigerator when they opened it up to steal some food.

The cops took them away. Then they checked the Columbus ave. building. On the floor of the basement, lying on a dirty mattress, were a man and woman. They took them away, too.

In municipal court the adults were given three months each on a morals charge. The youngsters were taken to juvenile court, where the girls were charged with being runaways, the boys with breaking and entering in the nighttime. Their parents came for them and the cases were continued.

Planned to Kill Self as Mee Asked, Satira Tells Judges

By JAMES RUSSELL

HAVANA, Oct. 17 (INS)—Patricia Schmidt testified at her trial today that John Lester Mee asked her to commit suicide after she shot him aboard the yacht Satira in Havana harbor as the climax to a violent quarrel. Under direct examination by Defense Atty. Dr. Rene Castellanos, the 22-year-old Toledo, O., dancer, on trial for Mee's murder, unfolded a story of discontent aboard the yacht, of financial shortages and of Mee's alleged sex obsession.

Then Dr. Castellanos asked her again to describe the shooting and the events which preceded and followed it, she said:

"The gun went off while I had it in my hand. After he fell to the floor Jack begged and demanded I kill myself.

"'Kill yourself,' he said. I started to comply with his wishes but changed my mind on seeing he apparently was going to live."

EX-MATES WIFE PRESENT

An unexpected development was arrival of Melody Day, wife of Patricia's former husband, Carl Sherry, who arrived in Havana to appear as a defense witness.

Castellanos began by asking the defendant what Mee meant by "Tirana Diabolo."

This appeared frequently in his diary, his letters and in his exotic poetry. She said:

"Tirana Diabolo was the goddess of sex to Jack. When he went into his trances he was like a slave possessed by a goddess. He tried to create this imaginary goddess in his girl friends. He did this on different occasions."

TELLS OF FEARS

Q—Were you frightened of Jack at any time during your relations with him? A—Yes.

Q—Did you notice any mental difficulty in Jack during these times? A—Yes.

Q—How were your relations with him affected as he became more eccentric? A—They cooled.

Asked about conditions on the Satira, Patricia said eight persons lived aboard the boat in Havana harbor. She said that all had access to every part of the boat.

Q—What about financial conditions. A—All were financially short.

Q—What did you do? A—I tried to obtain employment to help with expenses.

SOLD HER COSTUME

Patricia was asked for details regarding the money shortages. She said:

"Jack sold one of my green

Off Duty Cop Nabs Trio in Chelsea Break

On his way home early today after a tour of duty and carrying a gift for his sister, who is being married today, a Chelsea rookie policeman took time out to effect the capture of three local youths he surprised in a variety store in Blossom st., Chelsea.

Patrolman Thomas Evans, 22, decorated ex-marine and former Chelsea High School football star, saw a youth acting suspiciously outside the store and stepped into an alley.

As he did so, the youth tapped on the door of the store and two other youths came out. All three fled as the patrolman approached.

Evans caught one near the Sixth st. yards of the Boston & Maine R. R. The youth disclosed the identity of his two companions and they were arrested in their homes.

They gave their names as Harris T. Miller, 21, of Heard st.; William Sali, 22, of Eleanor st., and Howard P. Diamond, 20, of Chester ave. Officials said all three had police records.

The trio pleaded not guilty to charges breaking and entering and larceny when arraigned in Chelsea District Court before Judge John W. McLeod. He ordered them held on $2500 each for a hearing Monday.

Patrolman Evans on his return from court learned that he had been officially commended by Police Chief Kirby and given an extra day off for his work in capturing the three.

Investigation disclosed that 86 cents and $200 worth of cigarets had been stolen.

Sicily Beauty To Wed After Spurning Two

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 17—Amalia Salamone, 19-yeor-old blonde and green-eyed Sicilian beauty, who came to this country last June to wed an Arlington ex-GI, then changed her mind, chose a former Marine of Westfield—and changed her mind again—was headed for the altar today with her third selection in four months.

The triumphant fellow, who won Amalia's pretty nod after she spurned written bids from 60 former servicemen when her first romance went awry, was Carmelo J. Catania, New King st., Enfield, Ct.

They would have been married here last night but Carmelo was in such a happy dither he forgot he had to have a blood test first.

Amalia came from Sicily to marry Michael J. Barrio, Varnum st., Arlington, who had met her when she was 15 and he was with the Army. After they called it off, Barrio said she had changed; she was now a sophisticated girl with "high and fancy ideas," who insisted on having a maid.

Amalia shrugged a neat pair of shoulders and went to live with an aunt, Mrs. Charles Mendola of Springfield.

Last week she announced she would marry Louis Cadello, the Westfield Marine. Immigration authorities, who had extended her 30-day visa, said Cadello was all right with them but she would have to hurry about it or she would be sent back to Sicily.

Late yesterday, however, Amelia appeared at City Hall and filed marriage intentions with Catania. Then they sped to the home of Judge William J. Granfield and asked him for a waiver so they could wed at once.

Amelia had taken a blood test in the course of previous marital preparations, but Catania had overlooked it. He was to have it done today and they planned to make another try for the waiver.

Court Sees Negligence In Deer Island Death

Municipal Judge Jennie L. Barron said in an inquest report today that "someone or more persons" to whose custody Joseph Beduknis, 38, of Hyde Park ave., Hyde Park, was entrusted at the Deer Island House of Correction last June, "caused or contributed to his death."

Beõugnis died at Deer Island, June 18, four days after he was committed on a non-support compaint. In her report, Judge Barron said:

"I find he died of a fractured skull and brain damage caused by beating his head against a brick wall and iron cell bars and falling on a concrete floor while he had delirium tremens. He was not capable of caring for himself and this was known to the custodian.

"It obviously was dangerous to place a man in his condition for four days in a cell. There was violation of the duty imposed by law to guard this prisoner from himself and negligence in caring for him."

Purse Snatcher Escapes With Cash, War Bonds

A handbag containing $65 in cash, $75 in war bonds and personal papers was snatched from Louise Norton, 40, Huntington ave., Back Bay, today by one of two 20-year-old youths who approached her in Tyler st., South End. The youths ran off before passersby answered her cries for help.

Schoolmates at Rites For Slain Newton Girl

Nina D'Antonio, 15-year-old Newton slaying victim, was buried today at St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury, after a solemn requiem high mass was sung for the repose of her soul at the Sacred Heart Church in Newton Center.

Six boys, all classmates, acted as pallbearers for the youthful murder victim, while eight girls from her class, all dressed in white blouses and black skirts, followed the casket from the crowded church.

The girl was slain in the kitchen of her Langley rd., Newton, home on Monday night following a family argument in which her sister, Mary, 18, was clubbed over the head. Her father, Fiore D'Antonio, 42, police alleged committed the crime, then attempted to take his own life by taking poison.

Mary, whose announced wedding plans are believed to have started the argument, was reported recovering today at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital following a brain operation performed yesterday.

Police disclosed they have talked with D'Antonio at the hospital, but refused to comment on statements he made. His name is still on the danger list and he is being guarded by two policemen.

Jail, $30,000 Fine For FR War Aide

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Eugene B. Casey, one of President Roosevelt's wartime administrative aides, was a fined a total of $30,000 and given a jail term today for evasion of income tax payments.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnutt sentenced the 42-year-old defendant to pay a $10,000 fine and serve a six-month jail term on the first of three counts in an indictment against him.

On each of two other counts, he was fined $10,000 and sentenced to six months.

The two additional six-month terms were suspended upon condition that Casey pays all penalties due, court costs and other charges, and co-operates with the government in uncovering any further tax liabilities.

Hero Dead of Pacific Battles Near Final Resting Grounds

By KATHERINE DONOVAN

The long trek home for 102 New England war hero dead, across an ocean and a nation, ends today at Schenectady, N. Y., where caskets of the victims will be unloaded from a special train and dispatched under a guard of honor to their separate communities.

Representing all Gold Star mothers of Boston and New England, Mrs. Charles Ross of Blake st., Mattapan, who has journeyed all the way from San Francisco on the train bearing the body of her son, Cpl. Wesley G. Ross, 21, first Hyde Park boy to give his life in the Pacific area in World War II, will make immediate arrangements with Army authorities in Schenectady for transfer of the body to Boston.

Through Mrs. Ross' contact with the Army, other Boston and New England mothers will be informed

The young soldier guard who has stood watch over the body of Wesley Ross during this journey, Sgt. Owen Fike of Napa, Cal., representing the Army Air Forces, will formally turn over his hero charge in Schenectady today to another honor guard who will accompany the body direct to the Mattapan

"As this journey nears its end," Mrs. Ross said, "I want to say once again that what I dreaded as a journey of sadness has turned out to be one of consolation

Our years of experience give you the utmost in quality and service—plus unsurpassed values.

Tickets at Premium For Arena Hero Tribute, Add to Rites on Common

With the exception of a few which remain at the Buddies' Club on Boston Common, tickets for the Memorial to the Dead of World War II at Boston Arena next Sunday have been distributed, the committee announced today.

Because of the unprecedented number of requests for the impressive affair, arrangements have been made for an even larger program on Boston Common than had been anticipated, to take care of those who would otherwise be unable to take part in the honors for those who made the supreme sacrifice.

At the Common exercises, a guard of honor will be posted from 2 to 4 o'clock. Preceding, and during, the program the Boston Fire Dept. band will play appropriate music.

At the other end of the city, a solemn procession will form at South Armory, Irvington st., Back Bay, with units of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and National Guard forming with post commanders of Greater Boston veteran organizations.

2:15 START

The procession is due to start from the Armory at 2:15, proceed to Huntington ave., from Irvington st., thence to Massachusetts ave., and into the Arena in St. Botolph st., for the 3 p. m. exercises at which leaders of church and state as well as heads of various civic, fraternal and veteran organizations will take part.

The committee, headed by Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes and with Gov. Bradford as honorary chairman includes other such leaders as John D. Crowley, Sr., past national commander of the 40 & 8, and Gen. William I. Rose have arranged a stirring tribute to the fallen heroes.

Neal Shea has been assigned by the governor while the mayor has selected as his aides Col. David Brickley, commissioner of the city's veteran center; and Frank Pedonti, supervisor of Veterans Graves Registration.

DIGNITARIES

Chairman of the program committee will be the Hon. Francis J. Good, justice of Superior Court. Col. Ralph W. Robart, past national commander of the Army and Navy Legion of Honor and holder of the Distinguished Service Cross for bravery in the First World War is to be chief usher.

Members of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars drill teams have volunteered as ushers and will give special attention to Gold Star mothers and Gold Star wives.

So great has been the rush for tickets and so quickly was the supply exhausted that notifications have been sent out by fraternal organizations, including the Elks, the Knights of Columbus and the Grand Lodge of Masons for services at their meeting places.

In order that such gatherings may follow the program, arrangements have been made by William S. Pote, general manager of radio station WMEX for a full hour broadcast of the Arena services from 3:30 to 4:30.

With the co-operation of the Hearst newspapers in Boston, the committee announced it will reveal from day to day any and all additions that are made to both the Arena and Common programs between now and Sunday.

ICKES ON FENCE

OLNEY, Md., Oct. 17 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes has registered here as a "nonpartisan" voter.

Reporters, learning of this today, asked Ickes, a key figure in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt, for an explanation.

"Was Frank Knox a Democrat?" Ickes retorted. "Then why should you assume I am one?

"I have voted Republican in the past though I have never registered as one. The last time I voted Republican was in Illinois, in the primary of 1932. But I did not vote for Hoover."

Arm to Prevent War, Rickenbacker Warns

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—The U. S. must arm to the teeth to scare Russia out of making war, Capt. Rickenbacker, famous World War I ace, declared. The American aviation leader told a group of businessmen and industrialists that the only way to insure peace is to become so strong that Russia could never win a war against us.

He said that we should immediately prepare a "towering" air force and take the necessary emergency steps for military training of our young men.

"We can make the Soviet leaders understand that no matter how much destruction they may want to unleash upon us in secrecy and surprise we will be equipped so that we can strike back and inflict upon our attackers as much damage, if not more, than they can inflict upon us."

The pioneer of American combat air fighting spoke as Administration and Congressional leaders were considering the call of an extra session of Congress to provide relief to Europe and strengthening America's defenses.

Rep. Christian Herter (R.) of Massachusetts, chairman of a joint congressional committee which had just returned from an inspection of Europe, was preparing a report and recommendations.

Details of this will be kept secret until it is submitted to congressional leaders and the administration. It was learned, however, that members reported that American defenses should be strengthened at the earliest date.

Admiral Declares U. S. Youth Must Be Trained

DETROIT, Oct. 17 — R. Adm. Edward C. Ewen, Chief of the Naval Air Reserve Command, declared that:

"Adoption of the universal military service plan would put the nation in a better position to meet emergencies."

Adm. Ewen praised the Hearst newspapers for their editorial campaign for national preparedness.

He revealed that the Naval Air Reserve now has 23,000 enlisted men and 6000 pilots at 22 Naval air stations.

"These 150 air groups," he said, "could be put into operation within 48 hours."

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., Oct. 15—Russia's undiplomatic name-calling and unjust accusations before the UN will serve to "greatly assist" passage of a universal military training bill by Congress, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas declared.

The New Jersey Republican, speaking before the Northern Valley chapter of the Reserve Officers ass'n, urged that this nation co-operate with Russia "as long as there is any hope for effecting a successful peace."

"But," he warned, "we must remain firm, strong and vigorous in our preservation of American ideals. If the U. S. remains totally unshaken before the Russians, the Soviet Union may undergo a change of attitude."

Rep. Thomas, chairman of the House un-American activities committee, disclosed his group is now probing Communistic activity of Negroes and Negro organizations

Parents Bar Dates Girl Hangs Self,

EAST MEADOW, N. Y., Oct. 16 (AP) — A 13-year-old farmer's daughter hanged herself today because, police said, her parents refused to let her have dates with boys.

Mrs. Josephine Seret found the body of her daughter, Leona, hanging by a necktie from a rod in the girl's bedroom closet, Nassau County police reported.

Officers said the parents recently forbade her to go out with boys and she had told her brothers and sisters she would kill herself if they didn't let her have dates.

Unknown Steps Into Opera Unrehearsed, Wins 7 Bows

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Maureen Springer, 21-year-old daughter of a Covent Garden market importer, got her big chance as an opera star last night in a completely unexpected way and made good.

Both the star and the understudy for the part of Gilda in "Rigoletto" got the flu just before the opening at the Cambridge Theater and Maureen, who had learned but never rehearsed the part, was summoned.

She won seven curtain calls.

JUMP SUGAR PRICE

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Ministry of Food announced today that the controlled price of sugar for domestic consumption would be increased Nov. 9 to five pence (about nine cents) a pound, an increase of two pence.

Indian Lore Collected on Vineyard

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Traces of what he described as "one of the happiest chapters in the early relations between white and red men on the Atlantic seaboard" were found last summer by Dr. Henry B. Collins, Smithsonian Institution ethnologist, on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

Dr. Collins reported remains of the material culture of the old Martha's Vineyard people are quite scanty today, but he was able to locate many of their ancient settlements and collect samples of their characteristic arrowheads and other implements.

At the time of the Puritan settlement of Boston, Martha's Vineyard apparently was one of the most thickly settled places in the New England area. It is estimated to have had an Indian population of 3000. All belonged to the Wampanoag tribe of the general Algonquin stock.

Fortunately for the Indians, said Dr. Collins, the island was leased from the Earl of Stirling—to whom it was granted by the Crown—"by a remarkable character, the staunch old Puritan Thomas Mayhew who had extremely rigid ideas of justice due to Indians.

As a result, Dr. Collins said, the Indians have persisted at Gay Head at the west end of the island to this day and some of the remaining families apparently represent a relatively pure stock.

Waffle, Pancake Flour Jumped by Diet Days

ATLANTA, Oct. 17 (AP)—Increased use of waffle and pancake flour, resulting from meatless Tuesday and poultryless Thursday, has more than offset any savings of other foods, the executive secretary of the Atlanta Restaurant Ass'n said today.

At the same time, he said, restaurants have found that substituting of seafoods Tuesday has already caused such foods to rise sharply in price. Waffle and pancake flour, also has jumped in price.

3-Yr.-Old Eats Hay Fever Pills, Dies Within Hour

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 17 (INS)—Ann Carroll, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Carroll, died today an hour after she had eaten hay fever capsules. The capsules had been left within reach on a table in the Carroll apartment in a Cornell University veaerans' housing project.

The father, a Cornell graduate student, is from Lewiston, Me.

Bakers Pledge 3 Million Bu. Wheat Saving

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (INS) Baking industry representatives pledged support today to a conservation program sponsors hope will save 3,000,000 bushels of wheat a month in the form of bakery products, Charles Luckman, chairman of the citizens' food committee, announced after a meeting with representatives of the American Bakers' Ass'n and the Associated Retail Bakers of America.

Industry's representatives agreed to Luckman's request that, starting Oct. 28, they cease the practice of selling bakery products on a consignment basis or accepting the return of unsold goods.

They also pledged:

1—To feature smaller sizes of bread, where different sizes are offered;

2—To use non-critical ingredients, including fruits, raisins, and sugar.

3—To reduce the variety of baked goods offered for sale.

4—To limit such products as three-layer cakes and two-crust pies.

5—To establish new safeguards against all types of waste.

6—To use bread wrappers and other means of publicizing the food program and promoting thrifty buying by housewives.

Crippled Plane, 16 Solons Aboard, Lands Safely

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Air Transport Command said today an engine on an ATC plane bearing 16 members of a Congressional committee failed yesterday while flying from the Azores to Bermuda but the plane was able to turn back and land safely. The four-engined C-54, was 400 miles out of Lagens in the Azores, when the engine quit.

The Congressmen boarded another ATC plane and resumed their flight, arriving this morning.

White House Gets Protest On Truman Vatican Aide

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Eben Ayers, assistant press secretary, said today the White House has acknowledged receipt of a petition sponsored by the magazine "The Protestant" advocating withdrawal of President Truman's personal representative to the Vatican.

The magazine said the petition was signed by 1275 Protestant ministers. Ayers said the White House had no comment.

Seize Suspect in Illinois Auto-Trunk Murder

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—William Cromwell Bearden, 51-year-old repairman, sought for questioning in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Catherine Wasil, 35, was seized today in a field near suburban Winfield and taken to nearby Wheaton. The body of Mrs. Wasil, Cicero, Ill., housewife and mother of three young children, was found Wednesday stuffed into the trunk of her automobile.

25 CUBA STUDENTS SEIZED

HAVANA, Oct. 17 (AP) - Twenty-five students were arrested today at Santiago after being ejected from the central offices of the city's public works ministry which they had seized in protest against alleged delay in carrying out public works projects in Santiago.

WHAT COST JAVA?

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (INS)—The price of coffee may go up soon.

This warning came tonight from the National Coffee Ass'n which represents a large portion of the American coffee industry.

The association said the rise to consumers is threatened by recent increases in green coffee costs. Reported to have totalled $5.48 per one hundred pounds since July 22nd.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc

JOHN L. LEWIS, better than any other man, knows the danger of Communist penetration in the trade unions of this country. When he formed the CIO he was in need of a large number of skilled organizers, propagandists, writers and similar smart boys. He found them among the Communists and left wingers. Although he had never permitted Communists to play any part in the United Mine Workers, he took on this crew to the detriment of American labor and the American people.

They surrounded him. They introduced the syndicalistic sitdown strike. They applied Bolshevist methods to labor union organization. They managed to take over about a dozen of the CIO unions, some of which, like the U. E., they still absolutely control.

The CIO general headquarters became an organ of Communist propaganda and union funds were used for this purpose. Trade unionism, in the CIO, became strictly political. J. Raymond Walsh, chief apologist for the CIO, put it this way:

". . . Essentially the New Deal and the CIO are politico-economic twins, with a common heritage but different temperaments. The one had to come before the other could win its right to exist; both issued from the womb of an unhappy, unbalanced capitalist democracy."

LEWIS found himself in unpleasant, un-American company. In particular, he was required to support a war which he believed would be disastrous for America and he was required to serve the political purposes of Franklin D. Roosevelt. By 1940, he had been reduced to the position of a hanger-on to a political machine.

It was too much for Lewis. In the 1940 campaign he declared his personal independence. The skids were put under him and out he went. The Communists, who are a minority in the CIO, took over.

Lewis has seen his successor, Phil Murray, a man of religious scruples and personal integrity, become a prisoner of this Communist machine. All the apologists for Murray cannot explain away the activities of Lee Pressman, Decaux, Emspak, Quill, Bridges and others. The CIO did not limit itself to the field of American trade unionism; it became a supporter of Russian policy in the international field and actually joined the World Federation of Trade Unions, an organ of international trade communism that the A. F. of L. rejected.

JOHN L. LEWIS knows all this. Of course, he also knows that it ought to be unnecessary for an American to take an oath of loyalty, that every American is presumed to be loyal until proved disloyal. He is right, in principle, when he objects to taking an oath asserting that he is not a Communist. No one even suspects him of being a Communist.

But he ought also to know from his experience that these creatures creep into everything, that they change their names, disguise their affiliations, deny what is true and assert what is false in conformity to Lenin's dictum that to lie for the cause is a virtue.

He knows that this country, in another war, would be at the mercy of the U. E., which could cripple us by striking General Electric, Westinghouse, Allis-Chalmers, Radio Corporation of America and similar organizations which manufacture essential commodities of war.

HE KNOWS that Harry Bridges and Mike Quill could so tie up our transportation system that this country could not move men and supplies efficiently. He knows that radio operators and telegraphers could strike in the interest of a foreign foe.

He knows that the valiant fight that Walter Reuther is making to keep the Communists out of control of our automobile, tractor and tank manufacturing is a nip-and-tuck situation and that if he should fail, our wonderful productive record in the last war might not be paralleled in the next one.

Can this country continue to "ask its future?" All that the Taft-Hartley law demands is a statement of fact. If a labor leader says that he is not a Communist and he proves to be one, he is open to a charge of perjury which is a punishable offense.

That is a mild enough protective in the face of what we have seen Stalin's agents do in every country of Europe and Asia.

Phoned Advice Saves Holdup Victim in Vault

DETROIT, Oct. 17 (AP)—While an expert relayed directions by telephone, 52-year-old George H. Turner, a hotel night clerk, won a race against time early today and escaped from an air-tight vault where bandits had imprisoned him mfor 40 minutes.

Two armed men, took $140 from Turner's cash drawer and ordered him into the vault in search of more valuables. When they failed to find any, they slammed the door shut on Turner, jamming it.

"I turned on a light but I couldn't find any way to get out," Turner explained. "I started yelling nd kicking the door."

A guest heard Turner's shouts and police were called.

Police, unable to force the door, telephoned a safe firm and were referred to an expert, who gave them instructions by phone.

"The police called through the door and told me what bolts to unscrew," Turner said. "But I didn't have a screw driver. I tried some coins but they were too thick. It was getting harder to breath all the time.

"I started looking through the vault compartments and found a bunch of keys. One of them was thin enough to work as a screw driver. By this time my head was beginning to pound. I don't think I could have kept my senses much longer."

Rep. Kennedy Flown to Hub Hospital

Cong. John F. Kennedy, rushed to Boston by plane after he landed in New York on the Queen Elizabeth, was reported recovering in New England Baptist Hospital, Roxbury, today from a long siege of malaria contracted during the war.

The report was given by a spokesman of Dr. Frank Lahey, who is attending both Kennedy and Mrs. Myron Taylor, also in the Baptist Hospital for a hip injury. Mrs. Taylor is the wife of the President's envoy to the Vatican.

Kennedy, a former Navy lieutenant, was met at the New York docks by his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, former U. S. ambassador to England. The latter accompanied his son to the airport in Teterboro, N. J., then returned to New York.

The son was flown home in a chartered plane and was attended during the trip by Ann McGillicuddy, a nurse who was with him during the boat trip back to the United States. Kennedy suffered the malaria attack about a month ago while working with a fact-finding committee on labor in London.

Guilty of Eviction Attempt by Fire

Frederick W. Czerwinski, 48, of 'Louis Prang st., Roxbury, today pleaded guilty in Suffolk Superior Court to a charge of attempting to burn out a tenant in his three-family dwelling after other efforts at eviction failed.

State Det. Theodore W. Johnson testified Czerwinski had told him he had started a fire in the apartment of Mrs. Lena S. Kligman after saturating it with a mixture of gasoline and kerosene.

Defense Atty. William McGowan told the court Mrs. Kligman moved into the apartment when her brother moved out. He said she irritated Czerwinski, stepped on his toes and dared him to strike her.

Judge Allan G. Buttrick imposed a suspended 3 to 5-year sentence in state prison and placed the landlord on probation for two years.

2 Hub Bridges Closed Sunday for Repairs

Boy Thief Hired Bike For Getaway

Woon shoppers are so fast on their st these days that handbag snatchers are using bicycles for getaways, 15-year-old Irving Stuart, Rose st, South End, explained Judge Allan G. Buttrick in superior court today.

The youth, whose case was disposed of in juvenile court, testified against George Wooding, 28, Washington st, South End, and Gordon Gaul, 24, Harvard st, Cambridge, reformatory parolee.

The boy said he was instructed to rent a bike for a handbag snatch getaway.

"But my edit was no good, so another rented it and let me take it the snatch was to be on Shawmut ave. I was around the corner on the bike. Gaul came ding around the corner, jumped on the handlebars and I pedaled him off," he said.

There was no The intended victim, Mrs. Ida Cheney, 28, Shawmut ave, testified she had drawn a bottle of beer ale from her shopping bag and belted away at Wooding and Gaul until they ran.

Gaul, who had been called as a defense witness, suddenly pleaded guilty to attempted larceny, then took the stand in the State. He was to be sentenced after Wooding, who pleaded not guilty, had been heard.

NOCTURNAL GRID

Patrolman Arthur Brown and Jim Buchanan thought they had seen everything until they answered a trouble call by at the Cornwall st. playground, Jamaica Plain. Neighbors were complaining about a disturbance.

It was exactly 2:30 a. m. when the two cops rolled up to the playground to find 18 youths between 18 and 20 years old scrimmaging under the glare of nearby street lights. The boys had the footballs and most of them were helmeted and uniformed. After a lecture, they promised to practice earlier in the future.

HANGCHOW, Oct. 17 (AP)—A couple of U. S. Navy lieutenants want to make it clear to their comrades back on Okinawa they are not attending the World Council of the Young Women's Christian Ass'n in Hangchow.

Lieut. J. F. Easton, Norway, Me., and Lieut. A. R. Couvillion, New Orleans, said today they obtained leave from Okinawa and decided to take the train to visit Hangchow.

They were placed in a car loaded with Australians, New Zealanders, Indians, Burmese, Canadians and Americans—all girls and all going to the Y. W. C. A. council meeting. They objected not at all.

At Hangchow however, they ran into the Y. W. C. A. reception and it was all they could do to keep their luggage from being hauled off with that of all the Y. W. C. A. delegates.

Safe in the Lakeview Hotel they cleaned up, went down for dinner and were ushered into the dining room. The Y. W. C. A. banquet was just getting started.

They think maybe some Chinese don't know Y. W. C. A. is strictly a woman's outfit.

Legion Plans O'Neil Welcome

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17—A homecoming celebration and parade for Saturday is planned for Police Chief James F. O'Neil, new national commander of the American Legion. The welcome gets under way at noon when members of Henry J. Sweeney Post, A. L., will tender a luncheon to the new commander at their pleasant st. clubhouse.

In the afternoon, nearly 100 of the state's Legion posts will parade and the day's celebration will wind up with a dinner at the Armory, with Commander O'Neil delivering a policy address over a nationwide radio hookup.

Shipload of U. S. Aid Waited in Turkey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP) – The first shipload of supplies for strengthening the Turkish Army under the American aid program is due to arrive in Turkey in about a week, George C. McGhee, State Sec. Marshall's co-ordinator with the Greek Turkish program, announced.

The main body of military and naval supplies under the $100,000,000 Turkish aid project will begin moving to Turkey in November, McGhee said.

GOSSIP FROM HOLLYWOOD

Pope Receives First Envoy From Egypt, Stresses Peace

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 17 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, receiving the credentials of Egypt's first minister to the Holy See, appealed today to all nations to work toward the realization of a peace which, if not perfect, would be "at least bearable for all and durable."

"The most politable way of setting about preparing peace among peoples," the Pontiff told the Moslem minister, "consists always in bringing about for each of them improvement of their conditions of life, raising of their morality and the order of their social relations."

President May Also Attend Margaret's Recital Tonight

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 (AP)—Margaret Truman rested here today for a recital that marks the start of her concert tour of 30 cities.

Her mother is expected to fly to Pittsburgh today with a party including Treasury Secretary and Mrs. Snyder and Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred M. Vinson.

The President himself may be among the audience of 4000 tonight at Syria Mosque.

The recital, originally scheduled for this steel city last May, was cancelled when the President daughter flew to the bedside of her critically ill grandmother who died later.

Miss Truman, who arrived here yesterday, will be making her third concert appearance. She previously sang with symphony orchestras at Hollywood and Detroit. Tonight she will appear with piano and flute accompaniment.

Sistine Madonna Art Taken by Reds in Reich

PARIS, Oct. 17 (INS)—Francis H. Taylor, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, said today the Russians have carried off a large number of German art pieces from museums in Berlin, Dresden and other art centers.

He declared among the missing works are such masterpieces as Rafael's Sistine Madonna and the Giorgione Venus.

U. S. Planes to Spray DDT Over Egypt's Plague Spots

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (INS)—Maj. Malcolm C. Grow, Air Forces surgeon, announced that two planes will fly from Germany to Cairo to spray DDT over fly breeding areas that were the source of Egypt's recent cholera plague.

The C-54 transports are being sent at the request of Shousha Pasha, Egyptian Under Sec. of State for public health. Five Air Force pilots and one Navy plane loaded with vaccines, blood plasma and sulfa drugs already have flown from the U. S. to Egypt.

Bridal Preacher In Pajama Attire

FT. WORTH, Tex., Oct. 17 (AP)—Wedding fashion note: The preacher wore maroon pajamas.

Doris Woodard and Joseph E. Bothe hadn't counted on the Rev. Joseph D. Scheumack being involved in an automobile wreck when they engaged him to perform their marriage. Afterward, he agreed to officiate anyway if they didn't mind a hospital setting. They didn't.

The bride wore blue at the ceremony last night. The groom wore the conventional black.

HOLD WORKER HOSTAGES

HAVANA, Oct. 17 (AP)—Dispatches from Santiago, Cuba, today said student demonstrators took over the offices of the Public Works Dept. in that city last night and were holding 12 employes hostage in the building.

Teachers Open Fall Conference

GREENFIELD, Oct. 17—The annual fall conference of the Massachusetts Teachers Federation opened at junior high school here today with officials of 263 affiliated organizations representing 20,000 teachers in attendance.

Speakers at the morning session included Joanna Z. Connelly of the Boston School Dept. and Sen Ralph C. Mahar, chairman of the legislative committee on education.

Dr. Glenn E. Snow, of Washington, president of the National Education Ass'n, and John J. Desmond, Jr., state commissioner of education, will address the luncheon sessions.

Postmasters' Convention Honors Haverhill Man

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP)—The National Ass'n of Postmasters in convention here elected Burris C. Jackson, Hillsboro, Tex., as president to succeed Joseph F. Conrad, Scranton, Pa.

Other officers included Raymond McNamara, Haverhill, Mass., third vice-president.

VD Increase 'Catastrophic' In Europe, Says Red Cross

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The International Red Cross reported today an unprecedented spread of tuberculosis in Europe and declared the increase in venereal disease was "simply catastrophic."

The report said undernourishment mainly was the cause of the serious health condition, since it lowered resistance.

"Although Western countries, which have been assisted since the liberation, have had improved food supplies, undernourishment for a number of years has left its mark," the report said. "The conditions have meant an unprecedented extension of tuberculosis and almost everywhere ground gained against the disease has again been lost.

"Syphilis is increasing everywhere and will have disastrous effects on future generations. The increase in 'VD' in Great Britain is much greater than that recorded during the First World War."

The report said malaria made marked progress in the Balkans and Italy during the war. Large districts have been dusted by air with DDT, but large quantities of the disinfectant and antimalarial drugs are needed, it said.

The Red Cross suggested opening canteens for children, special food for infants, issues of clothing to children and adults, and the opening of work rooms where women could make and mend garments.

CYO Quarters Dedication By Archbishop Sunday

Formal dedication of the new headquarters of the Catholic Youth Organization in Commonwealth ave., will take place Sunday, with Abp. Richard J. Cushing and representatives from every parish in the archdiocese present.

An open-house program from 1 to 6 p. m., will be highlighted by the formal blessing of the building at 4:30 p. m., by Abp. Cushing. The Rev. George M. Dowd, director of CYO activities for the archdiocese, will have charge of the program.

Bandits Get $55,091 Coal Mine Payroll

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 17 (AP)—Three bandits robbed a coal mine payroll office of $55,091 today. The robbery was at Sayreton Mine of Republic Steel Corp.

Wood Cooper, 30, plant guard, and G. C. Calloway, payroll clerk, said one man, not masked, stuck a pistol through the window and ordered the door opened. The other two robbers, both masked, entered the door, scooped up the payroll and fled.

FOR BREADLINE?

DETROIT, Oct. 17 (AP)—Detroiters can use some education on Pres. Truman's food-saving plan, members of the new city conservation committee decided today after receiving telephone calls from several housewives who reported they had saved 20 to 30 slices of bread.

"Some of it is getting pretty stale—are you going to collect it or do you want me to take it to an agency somewhere?" one woman asked.

Family Car Faces Scarcity Of Anti-Freeze

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Your car is in for a rough winter, motorist.

Like 40-cent steaks and cheap housing, anti-freeze is on the scarce list.

"The plain truth is, the chemical industry just hasn't got the capacity to manufacture all the anti-freeze needed this winter," one manufacturer said.

Another declared: "Just as soon as the temperature drops, all hell breaks loose."

Why an industry-wide shortage?

SHORTAGE GENERAL

Productive capacity is insufficient, more cars are on the roads than ever before, people in Northern cities invariably over-buy, and there is a shortage of drums and transportation facilities.

Said one Du Pont representative:

"Chemicals used in anti-freeze have other important industrial uses, and the demand from other quarters is unprecedented.

"Considerable plant expansion is under way, but won't be completed in time to meet the current demand."

Dealers everywhere are counting on the "old reliable," denatured alcohol, to shoulder a major share of the anti-freeze burden this winter, since ethylene glycol and methanol, popular types of anti-freeze, are on the scarce list.

DeValera's Plan to Cut Eire's HCL Approved

DUBLIN, Oct. 17 (INS)—The Eire Parliament by a 56-to-44 vote approved the government's new budget aimed at reducing the cost of living index through food subsidies, and increased income taxes and duties on luxury items.

All members of the opposition party voted against Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's measure.

dancing costumes for $100. He kept the money. I didn't find out until later that he had sold the dress."

Q—Did he sell anything else? A—He sold equipment on the boat, including a typewriter, a sextant and watches. He sold two watches of mine.

Q—Were there arguments aboard? A—There were frequent arguments among Jack and the passengers. They said they weren't getting what they bargained for.

EDITOR NOTE: Previous questioning of Miss Schmidt disclosed that Mee, a former Chicago lawyer and Navy veteran, had planned to operate the "Satira" and another boat called the "Tirana" for profit by taking paying guests aboard.)

Castellanos spoke of Patricia's previous testimony that Mee had treated her brutally and threatened to kill her.

Q—Why didn't you tell the others on the boat about this? A—You just don't discuss these things with acquaintances.

QUESTIONED BY JUDGE

When Castellenos completed his questioning, Judge Enrique Mazas took over.

He asked whether Charles Jackson of River Forest, Ill., a longtime friend of Mee who was aboard the yacht at the time of the shooting, intervened in her last argument with her lover. She answered in the negative.

Q—You brought friends to the boat the day of the shooting. What did Mee do? A—He ordered me to take them away.

PATRICIA HAIRDO

HAVANA, Oct. 17 (AP)——Many Cuban girls are wearing fanshaped hair dress which they call the "Patricia mode," prompted by pictures of Patricia Schmidt, the American girl who is on trial here for the fatal shooting in Havana harbor of her sweetheart, John Lester Mee.

Later he cursed about it. I felt like a slave to him.

Q—Then what happened? A—That's when he hauled off and hit me and said: 'Get off my boat, you good for nothing bum.' He was like a madman. He kept beating me and then I began getting my clothes together.

Pale and weary, Patricia was excused from the stand.

Jackson, who is accused as an accomplice for allegedly concealing facts, then was summoned. He served notice he would answer questions only if asked by his defence counsel, Dr. Ismael Soto Barroso.

"CHUCK, I'M DYING

Jackson told of meeting Mee in the Navy in 1942. He spoke of their later friendship.

Q—Where were you when the shooting occurred? A—In the forward cabin below deck.

Q—What happened then? A—Patricia shouted and when I first saw her she was standing on the deck.

Q—What did you do then? A—I went into the cabin and saw Jack lying on his back on my left. He said "Chuck, I'm dying."

Jackson said he left immediately and set off in a rowboat for a doctor

Evictee

The discussion at a special hearing granted Greater Bostonians at the State House today concerned evictions and rents, but the goings-on in the room—436—came to a temporary halt for an eviction. The victim was little John Joseph McFeeley, whose cries brought him expulsion.

NAILING A LIE

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
Former Member of House of Representatives From Indiana

(Reprinted by permission of America's Future, Inc.)

HOW MUCH HELP has Uncle Sam given to foreign countries?

Since the beginning of the war, it has amounted, net, to $38,206,741,335.

But as no one knows what a billion dollars is, much less 58 billion, let's measure this by yardsticks we know something about.

At $8000 per house, this gigantic sum would build over 7,000,000 homes.

It is three billion dollars more than the total purchases in all our retail stores in the year we entered the war.

It is 10 billion dollars more than the total assets of all our life insurance companies—the backlog of security for 65,000,000 insurance policyholders.

It is six billion dollars more than the net worth of all our business companies. These assets are the backlog for jobs for nearly all of us—manufacturing, mining, railroading, merchandising, shipping, etc.

It is 23 times as much as we spend on the education of all children in our public schools.

IT IS ALMOST three times as much as all our farmers and cattlemen received for their cattle, crops, poultry, etc., in our biggest farm income year.

It is five times the value of all farm buildings, houses, and barns, in the United States. Hence, if all our farm buildings were completely destroyed by five successive fires, it would rebuild them five times.

IT IS TWO-AND-ONE-HALF TIMES THE VALUE OF ALL OUR FARM LANDS.

It is $15,000,000,000 more than the total national income of all our people in 1933.

It is 29 times as much as all our old and sick people received in Social Security payments the year we entered the war.

It is 10 billion dollars MORE than the total wages and salaries paid in America the year the war broke out in Europe.

It is 14 times the amount of all business profits that same year.

It is 11 times the value of all United States exports to foreign countries in 1929, the peak export year before the war.

It is $6,000,000,000 MORE than the total spent to run the federal government during the first seven years of Mr. Roosevelt's administration

CONSIDER THESE FACTS, Mr. Vishinsky, deputy foreign secretary of the Soviets, AND THEN TELL US THAT WE ENTERED THIS WAR TO MAKE MONEY!

Of this huge total, how much went to Russia in Lend-Lease, direct loans, and UNRRA relief?

The answer is $11,681,393,782.

How much is that by some yardstick we can understand?

Well, it is almost 11 times the value of our cotton crop in 1945; 10 times the value of our wheat crop; almost eight times the value of all hard and soft coal dug in 1945; and six times the value of all gold, silver, iron, copper, lead, zinc, and other metals mined that year.

Mr. Vishinsky, you can tell your people, behind your iron curtain of censorship, that we went into the war to make money, BUT YOU CAN'T MAKE OUR TAXPAYERS BELIEVE YOUR STORY.

They still have to pay all those 11 billions of American aid to your country.

It is part of their debt.

AND, BESIDES, don't you forget this! WE DEPLETED OUR COAL, PETROLEUM, IRON AND TIMBER RESERVES IN THIS PROCESS.

In the wheat we sent abroad were millions of tons of our fertile soil.

We sent your country $11,297,883,000 of the real wealth of the United States.

In reverse Lend-Lease, you gave us back $2,219,000! Or $1 for every $5310 we sent you.

While we were doing this, your country has seized 274,000 square miles of other people's lands—eight times the size of Indiana—with 24,355,000 people!

Stop calling us greedy!

On the Side

By E. V. Durling

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

What shall I do with all the days and hours
That must be counted ere I see your face?
How shall I charm the interval that lowers
Between this time and that sweet time of grace?
O, how or by what means may I contrive
To bring the hour that brings you back more soon?
How may I teach my drooping hope to live
Until that blessed time, and you are here!

—FRANCES ANNE KEMBLE.

DURING THE WAR many of the feminine subscribers with husbands in the service overseas sent their absent spouses poems clipped from this department. The above was one of the most popular. I have often wondered, now that those then absent husbands are home again, if their presence is as much appreciated as their absence was deplored. All replies to this query considered confidential.

OVER THERE: On her trip to London Mae West took along a million dollars worth of jewels. The London police stated the value of Mae's jewelry to be "two hundred and fifty thousand pounds." That's a million dollars, isn't it? Among the opinions expressed to reporters in London by Miss West was the following: "Long skirts. A good thing. They will make women appear more feminine on legs."

Mae West

BROOKLYN is doing all right these days. So I have some time and space to devote to the difficulties of the borough of Manhattan. What Manhattan needs is a turning worm society. The situations Manhattanites will stand for without squawking are almost unbelievable. Take the Fifth ave. buses. Most of the double-deckers have been taken off. In their place have been substituted the one-decker coops operated by one man. To ride on this type of bus on Madison ave. the fare is five cents. On Fifth ave. it is ten cents. Why? I will give a prize of one Havana cigar to the bus company official giving the best answer to this question.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—I collect old mutuel tickets. Any contributions? A—Sorry sir. I give my mutuel tickets to the cashiers at the track. Ask Bill Corum. He usually has a lot of leftover mutuel tickets. He might as well give them to you as tear them up and bitterly throw the pieces in the air. Q—In what year and by whom was the song "Whispering" popularized? A—You have me baffled. The title doesn't seem to have made an impression on me. Now if you had asked about the song titled "Wondering" I could have told you PLEASE NOTE: The designer responsible for the long skirt style is said to be one Christian Dior of Paris. "Monsieur Dior," says one of his critics, "has a cynical disregard for the worldwide shortage of textiles." An evening gown, Dior style, requires fifty yards of material; a day dress, twenty to thirty yards. More material is required for the several "rustling petticoats" M. Dior suggests. Before he became a dress designer, this man, who has thrown millions of women into an indignant dither, was an art dealer.

BULLFIGHTER Conchita Cintron, the Peruvian blonde who became a bullfighter, is still going strong. Conchita, who is paid from $2500 to $3500 for a single performance, has killed 587 bulls so far. Speaking of bulls, did you hear about that thirty-nine pound, one-year-old mongrel dog of Sterling, Ill., who saved the lives of two men by routing a mad bull? The pup, coming to the rescue, first nipped the bull on the nose. Then he grabbed him by the tail. While the bull was trying to get rid of the pup the men escaped. And so did the pup after his rescue job was completed.

BRICKLAYERS: Why should all brick-layers receive the same wage? Are there no degrees of skill in bricklaying? Is one bricklayer just as good as another? I still claim bricklayers should be paid by the brick. And let the best bricklayer make the most money. Tomorrow I may tell carpenters how to run their business.

CANARIES: Now canaries are sold in department stores. I noticed an announcement stating canaries had been reduced from $3.90 to $2.47. It's a good thing canaries can't read. A bird noting his price had been cut to $2.47 might get an inferiority complex and refuse to sing

IN WYOMING: "How is it you didn't know there was a statue of Robert Burns in Cheyenne, Wyoming?" asks a Westerner. Couldn't say, sir. I have been to Cheyenne. Guess I was too busy trying to find the fellow who originated the ten-gallon hat to pay any attention to the city's statuary attractions.

"At least, long skirts sure revive one's memory for FACES!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—Some of my colleagues on the sport side have been arguing that it isn't right to punish a man by some special law of baseball or pugilism for an act which is not illicit in the view of the cops. Or to punish him for some offense already expiated in the public clink.

Westbrook Pegler

That would be double jeopardy, wouldn't it? Yup, it would and it is supposed to be repugnant to our delicate sense of justice, but that is just what we say. It really is not repugnant at all.

The miscreants or martyrs here concerned are Leo Durocher and Rocky Graziano. Both are good but both were bad.

HAPPY CHANDLER, the commissioner of the baseball industry, gave no reason why he suspended Durocher for the season of 1947.

In my opinion, which is never humble or erroneous although it often stands alone, this was a whimsical, personal judgment of a man who had been touched off balance by a confusion of events.

An equal effect might have been wrought by a briefer suspension or just some loud, public wigging.

However, no injustice was done because Durocher is an old baseball man and clubhouse lawyer and he knew all along that when he signed articles with the professionals he submitted to a special mess of laws and angers.

Like a sailor in the old days, he knew that a man who gave scandal could be whispered out of baseball totally. But he knew this was most unlikely to happen to anyone of fairly decent behavior

He knew that public opinion would protect such a man from a cruel and wanton sentence

ANYONE WHO TRIES to argue that Graziano's environment was responsible for his police record and his misconduct in the Army must explain away Al Smith and the late Cardinal Hayes, who came from the same neighborhood, and explain the overprivileged sons of the Park ave branch of the Jeeter Lester family.

I could write a persuasive plea, although not a defense, for Graziano

The Army took him just when he was beginning to pick up money for fighting, so he just went AWOL and made some fights and got some of that easy money

The fights all were announced and reported in the papers and, although Rocky was using a pseudonym, the town was crawling with Army Intelligence and MP's, and they should have picked him up.

IN ENTERING his profession under certain beneficial conditions, Rocky submitted himself to a special code of laws and punishments.

He probably never has read the boxing law.

He probably didn't memorize the regulations and learn specifically that he could be suspended for life if he failed to report to the prize fight commission an attempt to bribe him to take a dry dive.

But anyone who has had as much friction as Rocky with the cops and the courts knew that he was taking a chance when he kept his mouth shut.

These alley kids are smart and Graziano knew it was up to him to blow the whistle on the man who propositioned him.

He not only failed to report the proposition, but he lied when he said he just didn't know who the man was. Rocky elected to leave this fellow in circulation, free to fix more fights, knowing that the commission could lay him up for good. Possibly he was afraid the mob would bump him off for squealing

Still he observed the gangster's code so he certainly was no victim of injustice when he was suspended. The ensuing suspension of Graziano in Illinois because he had misbehaved in the Army and served a sentence for it was sanctimonious business.

To sock him here as a gesture toward the veterans who were honorably discharged was plain patrioteering.

I KNOW WHAT is the matter with some of my colleagues of the sport side, though. They have been playing around with the scum, shysters and gyps of sportsdom, for many years and treating them as harmless and amusing characters.

They are caught absolutely dumb and without an excuse when some energetic public official such as Frank Hogan, the district attorney, invades the sport beat and shows up the rackets.

So they belittle Hogan and one journalist wants to know why he didn't tell them what was what and another says it was wrong of him to grab Graziano in the middle of the night and question him.

A reporter is supposed to know what goes on on his own beat. He ought to scoop the district attorney, not hang around for handouts.

Dads Watch Losing Battle

Sons Die—Walter Lane (left, wearing glasses) and Robert Trompetto (extreme right) watch fire department rescue units wage a 4-hour losing battle for the lives of their sons, Richard Lane, 5, and James Trompetto, 6, who were found unconscious in a West Los Angeles reservoir. Boy who saw the youngsters fall into the water, summoned help, but the boys drowned before aid arrived.

Fly Has 'Gyro'—Under wing of model of a drone fly in New York laboratory shows the haltere (arrow) with which a fly keeps sense of balance and direction in flight. Vibrating halteres under each wing are nature's "gyroscopes" and "compasses" in fly's flight to keep it on its course even when it cannot see where it is going. Research is being made by American Museum of History and the Sperry Gyroscope Co.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17 (INS)—Very exciting, I think, that Oscar Wilde's play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," which was revived last year on Broadway, is to be remade in the movies.

Greer Garson

Darryl Zanuck has bought the rights from Warner Brothers, and Otto Preminger is slated to direct.

I hear tell, but I must say this is not verified, that Greer Garson is very much wanted for the "Lady" and there's a chance she may be borrowed. She likes the play. I say a "chance" because I must give this as a rumor.

John Maschio, who put over the deal, had quite a time because not only were Warners involved (they made it with Ernst Lubitsch years ago) but also the Wilde estate. I don't know why Jack Warner decided to sell, because at one time it was planned to star Bette Davis.

THE NOISE coming from the Republic studio a few days ago was from the office of Herbert Yates, who was arguing with John Wayne.

John didn't like the script of "Wake of the Red Witch," which was supposed to go before the cameras Wednesday, and insisted that the screenplay wasn't right. After much shouting, Yates agreed to throw the whole thing out the window and start at scratch, and that means the picture won't get started until January.

The only ray of hope is that Republic is hopeful of borrowing Gail Russell from Paramount to play opposite John.

WHEN I WAS in Baltimore in April, I saw Irene Hervey in the road company of "State of the Union" and I thought she was delightful. Her clothes were lovely and I thought how much poise she had acquired as an actress.

So I am glad to tell you that after four years away from the screen, Irene comes back in "Mickey" for Eagle-Lion. Yes, this is the famous Mabel Normand hit being remade with 15-year-old Lois Butler in Mabel's old role.

I can never even type Mabel's name without pausing to remember what a vivid, lovable, impetuous person she was—she never hurt anyone except herself.

CORINNE CALVAY is a very foolish girl. She had the biggest chance in the world at Paramount after she came here from France, but she has refused to study or to take her career seriously. Now her contract is finished at the end of the year—and so is Corinne. She'll go home without ever having made an American picture.

Meanwhile "Sealed Verdict," which she was to have done, has been given to Florence Marley, another French actress.

The trouble with Miss Calvay is that she needed to study and work hard to lose her accent. At Paramount they say she would never keep appointments with her teachers and that she was more interested in night clubs than her career.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: After Mrs. Dane Clark left Dane she wasn't idle. She went to New York, and during their estrangement devoted herself to painting, with the result she will have a one-woman show at the Midtown Galleries.

Well, when Dane went back and saw his wife was painting and trying to make a go of her life without him, he started courting her, and now she's back home with him. I wouldn't say it was her painting that did it, but it was her courage.

I saw some wardrobe tests of Errol Flynn and Viveca Lindfors in "Don Juan," and in color Errol is the handsomest thing I've ever looked at. As for Viveca, she is an absolute beauty.

It was interesting to see the different ways her hair was arranged, and how many times it was arranged before one style was decided on.

Robert Douglas, who was brought here from England by Jack Warner, gets the role of the Duke of Iverna, next in importance to Errol's part.

He is now with Alexis Smith in "Christopher Blake," and Jack says he's very pleased with his appearance on the screen.

A broken eardrum which no one seemed to know about is what has kept Orson Welles from leaving for Italy to make "Cagliostro." He is now supposed to leave Nov. 7, but Republic insists he delay his trip if "Macbeth" is not finished and edited.

The compromise is that if they don't hit the deadline in time, Welles will complete the few remaining scenes of "Mac" in Rome and supervise the editing of the whole film there.

Meanwhile Gregory Ratoff, who has been waiting for the "genius," has been cabling like mad.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Lynn Bari and Sid Luft, who were pretty bitter at the time of their parting, dining together at the Somerset House last night. I still think there's a chance of a reconciliation there.

Lynn Bari

Judy Garland and Vicente Minelli at Ciro's for the Kay Thompson opening. Judy and Kay are old friends.

Brian Donlevy gets back from Detroit in a very few days, and then the fire works are to start.

Nice letter from Paul Kelly, who is the hit of New York in "Command Decision."

Harry Richman is negotiating to buy a night spot in the valley. He'll turn it into the Club Richman.

What with all the visiting editors, there have been many festivities and cocktail parties. Sheilah Graham honored Arthur Christianson, editor-in-chief of Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express. Maureen O'Hara, whose mother looks young enough to be her sister, came with Maureen, who wore an exciting picture hat.

I had a chance to talk with Hedy Lamarr, who is thinner than she's ever been in her life. She tells me she may go to New York for a fling at the theaters, but she wants to settle her movie plans first.

Olivia De Havilland said she was so interested while making "The Snake Pit" she couldn't wait to get on the set each day.

Cotton was flown in from the South by Helen Ferguson for decorations for the party honoring William Cotton, publisher of Ideal Publications, and David Brown of Liberty. Sue Ladd, slimmer than she's been in years, is wearing straight bangs and looks just as she did when "Sweet Sue" was written for her. Of course, she was with her favorite actor—Alan Ladd, to you. Loretta Young, Tom Lewis, Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond, Bob and Betzi Stack, were among the other guests.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

THE CITY'S federal relations secretary, John P. Brennan, is still trying to strike a bargain with the Navy for a craft suitable for a fireboat. His argument is that the Navy has "two billion dollars' worth" of property to be protected here, including its aircraft carriers berthed at South Boston . . . Brennan says the city now has only one fireboat, more than 50 years old, and a new one would cost a cool half-million. He got a $450,000 seagoing tug from the Navy for $30,000 to replace the Michael J. Perkins on the Long Island run . . . Charles D. O'Malley, school committee candidate, rose from private to captain during five years' Army service . . . Boston friends of Frank Kingman, Brockton Fair secretary-manager, claim he is New England's champion traveler, taking in all the big fairs every year in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

BOSTON'S LOSS is New York's gain in the transfer of the Rev. John B. Sheerin; C. S. P., from the Paulist Fathers' information center on Park st. He will edit The Catholic World . . . WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—Lord Chorley, who is described as a Labor peer, whatever that is, got up at a Labor Party meeting in London the other day and proposed that Winston Churchill's cigars be taken away in "punishment" for his criticism of the Attlee government.

This Labor peer, who may be something they tie scows to for all I know, drew quite an ovation with his suggestion. He sat down with a fat smirk on his lordly puss, satisfied he had told off Britain's wartime prime minister in no uncertain terms.

The first reaction, on reading of this episode, would be to dismiss it as just a blubberhead sounding off for a laugh. But its implications are deadly. It is a perfect illustration of the workings of the left wing mind.

These Red Fascists, who scream about freedom and the rights of man, refuse to concede any right to those who disagree with them. If Lord Chorley and his mob could punish Winston Churchill you can bet they'd do it like a shot, and nothing would be too preayune or too mean.

They wouldn't only take away his cigars; they'd subject the man who led them to victory, to every indignity they could devise.

Britons, who have long been touted for their muddling-through commonsense, should have been brought up sharp when they read Chorley's suggestion and recognized it for what it was: A true left wing manifestation of complete disregard for the basic rights of man.

In the old days a bum like Chorley couldn't have got a hearing, peer or no peer. They'd have run him so ragged with jeers he'd have developed a Chorleyhorse.

ONE OF THE GREAT tourist sights of the nation's capital, known to guides on Capitol Hill as the "Bricker Bullet Hole," is no more.

This was the hole in the wall of the Senate subway caused by a bullet intended for Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio. The would-be assassin, a former Capitol policeman named William L. Kaiser, has still given no satisfactory explanation for his act.

He sticks to the same cryptic explanation he gave after the shooting last July 12: "I was just trying to refresh his memory."

I am inclined to be a bit forgetful myself at times and I trust no one will try to prod my recollection with a slug. If you want my frank opinion, it smacks of the drastic.

In any event, the bullet hole became an object of incredible interest to visitors. Almost the first thing they would ask, after the guide had concluded his initial spiel, was: "Where is the Bricker bullet hole?"

The high-minded guides, who wished to display their erudition by rattling off facts and figures on the old Supreme Court and other historical chambers, became so exasperated at having their most learned dissertations rudely interrupted they appealed to Capitol Architect David Lynn.

The upshot was that Mr. Lynn ordered the bullet hole erased. It was carefully filled with wax and then the entire wall was painted over in dull yellow.

But all is not lost so far as the tourist is concerned. Some historically-minded vandal has carefully drawn a red ring around where the hole used to be, marking the spot for posterity.

BEING A REACTIONARY and a diehard, I have not yet fully made up my mind about television, whether it is an unmixed blessing or no. But this I do know, of my own knowledge: it has turned a hitherto unlovely spectacle into a thing of beauty.

Mr. Harry Wismer, the celebrated sportscaster who describes the Redskins' football games, is a sterling character, a good husband and loving father, but when the customers could hear only his voice he was inclined to be a little careless of his personal appearance.

He showed up in raiment unquestionably obtained from a missionary barrel and with a healthy growth of beard. His explanation for not shaving, which I always thought a trifle specious—was that a close shave tended to tighten the corners of his mouth.

But this season Mr. Wismer is being televised. At certain times in the broadcast the camera is swung around at him. And, oh baby, is he prepared?

His raiment is impeccable, even his pants which don't show. And his face is scraped so close it would look like a raw sunset, except that it is tastefully pancaked with just the right shade of powder.

The first televised broadcast he also came in scented very beautiful too, but the head television man said:

"Listen Harry, television does not record smells!"

A SPEAKER before the Washington Advertising Club said today that the new women's fashions came from abroad. Thank Heaven they didn't come from a man.

Gitz Rice of 'Hinky Dinky' Fame Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Gitz Rice, 56, who adapted the music of a French folk tune to create World War I's marching son, "Mademoiselle From Armentieres," died yesterday.

Serving with Canadian troops in France, Rice collaborated with a British sergeant, "Red" Rowland, to write the Armentieres lyrics. "Hinky Dinky Parley Vous" and speed up the tempo of the French song, "Mademoiselle de Bar-Le-Duc" for adaption to them.

He also composed two other well-known World War songs, "Dear Old Pal of Mine" and "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie Boy."

Catholics Protest Exclusion at Beth's Bridal

LONDON, Oct. 17 (INS)—London morning newspapers reported today the Vatican radio has complained that the Catholic Hierarchy will not be able to present loyal addresses at the forthcoming marriage of Princess Elizabeth.

"This exclusion again shows the unsatisfactory position of English Catholics" the broadcast said.

"Among the privileged institutions having the right to address the King are only the Anglican church deputation of free churches and two Jewish organizations.

"Hence the Catholics, their Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops, are excluded. Millions of Catholics, faithful subjects of the King, are subjected to prejudice."

Elizabeth will be married Nov. 20 to Lieut Philip Mountbatten at Westminster Abbey in a Church of England ceremony.

An official court announcement said Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick Browning has been appointed controller and treasurer of Elizabeth's household.

Browning, husband of novelist Daphne Du Maurier, was responsible for building up Britain's first airborne division.

Scotland Yard, meanwhile, declined to comment on a report in the London Evening Standard that police already have begun a security check on occupants of buildings overlooking the route of the wedding procession.

The Standard's "diarist" stated that building owners have been warned by Scotland Yard to send [illegible] and ticket holder who will be admitted for the procession.

According to the writer, the cameras and binoculars of all onlookers will be examined and their pockets may also be searched if they contain any bulky objects.

He said window seat viewers were warned to bring identity cards or passports.

Scotland Yard said precautions to safeguard the Princess, members of the Royal Family and Mountbatten will be taken but thus far no orders have been issued.

there's more to a man's suit than its price tag

There is more to a man's suit than the eye beholds. It's not what you see as you look at yourself in the mirror—or the feel of the fabric or the price tag on the sleeve that will give you the long lasting satisfaction that your dollars should buy when you invest in a new suit.

Here at Kennedy's we think in terms of skilled tailoring—thoroughbred tempered fabrics—in-built know-how of trained craftsmen. These combine to give you long lasting service and over the period of months they will cause you, too, to join with thousands of other New Englanders in feeling that there is something more enduring about a Kennedy suit.

In men's suits as in other things there are the truly fine and the common. One man chooses the common and gets a fleeting satisfaction out of having paid a small price. Another chooses the fine and gets a better bargain. His is the lasting satisfaction of having paid such a little more for something so much better.

Community Fund Canvass Begins

More than 2700 district workers for the Greater Boston Community Fund today began a drive in the 46 corporate districts of the city for a minimum of $325,000.

Walter M. Crotty, chairman of the districts division drive, at a dinner at the Hotel Somerset last night, urged all workers to cover their districts fully in an effort to put the drive 25 per cent over the goal.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kenney, co-chairman of the West Roxbury, Roslindale, Hyde Park and Forest Hills area, were hailed as the first to go over the 100 per cent enrollment in the fund, having already completed their collections.

30 In Plane Forced Down In Spanish Bay, Safe

PARIS, Oct. 17 (AP)—An official of the French Intercontinental Transport Airlines said today that 30 passengers on one of its planes which made a forced landing in Cartagena, Spain, were safe and would be brought back to France by train.

Plane's Mid-Air Loop Due to Pilot's Controls Test

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (INS)—A pilot's experiment with the plane's control mechanism was blamed officially today for the mid-air loop of an American Airlines C-54 over Texas Oct. 8 with 51 persons aboard.

The civil aeronautics board declared the weird incident was due to the action of the aircraft commander, Capt. C. R. Sisto of Los Angeles.

The report, based on statements of crew members, said Sisto, who was not flying the plane at the time, locked the plane's gust lock to see what effect the action would have on the huge aircraft. The document said:

"Capt. Sisto, sitting on the jump seat, decided to engage the gust lock while in flight to determine what action, if any, it would have on the control and attitude of the plane from level flight."

The report said Sisto's action was "unbeknown" to Capt. John Beck of Memphis, Tenn., who was flying the plane, and Capt. Melvin Logan of Los Los Angeles, co-pilot.

The gust lock is a mechanism which locks controls of an airplane while it is on the ground, to prevent the plane from being affected by wind action.

Seek Review of 340,000 Navy, Marine Discharges

• WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—The Navy today invited 340,000 former sailors and marines who failed to receive honorable discharges to apply for a review of their cases.

About 14,000 discharges already have been investigated by a special board and 30 per cent of them changed for the better, the Navy announced.

Not eligible for review are discharges given as the result of a general court-martial.

The best discharge issued by the Navy was the honorable. Below that in descending order of merit were under honorable conditions, undesirable, bad conduct and dishonorable.

The Navy gave out more than 300,000 under honorable conditions, 17,000 undesirable, 32,000 bad conduct, and 3000 dishonorable.

An official pointed out that under the GI Bill of Rights any discharge since the founding of the Navy may be reviewed except court-martial discharges.

Egypt Cholera Death Toll Hits 1437, Report 520 New Cases

CAIRO, Oct. 17 (INS)—Egypt's cholera death toll reached 1437 with official announcement that 175 more persons had died in the epidemic. The nightly communique reported 520 new cases, two in Cairo.

The Health Ministry said one of the deaths occurred in Cairo, but denied a report that the capital was to be declared an "infected area."

The Ministry said most of the Cario cases resulted from Egyptians filtering in from the northern villages, adding that "it would be a disaster if the epidemic actually breaks out in Cairo proper."

Phyllis Watts to Wed

A SMALL TEA will be given Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Watts of Canton ave., Milton, and Middleton, in honor of the engagement of his daughter, Phyllis, to Dr. Albert Hewett Coons of Boston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Coons of Gloversville, N. Y.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late Mrs. Bessie Goulding Watts and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Watts of Surrey, England. She graduated from Radcliffe in 1940 and studied fine arts in London.

Dr. Coons graduated from William College in 1933 and Harvard Medical School 1937. He interned at Massachusetts General Hospital and is now an instructor at Harvard Medical School. He served three years during the war with the 105th General Hospital in the Pacific. He is a grandson of Mrs. Eugene H. Coons of Gloversville and the late Dr Coons.

MR. AND MRS. ROGER W. CUTLER, JR., dining at the Copley Plaza Oval Room the other evening, chatted over after dinner coffee with Harry Marshard and reminisced about the days when both men were majors in the Rainbow Division overseas. Post-deb Cornelia Robb, waltzing in the Oval Room with a handsome Belgian escort, Jean-Louis Ganshof, wore a navy and green sheer wool dress with a gold choker necklace. Cappy O'Connell and her sister, Eileen, were applauding the Jimmy Carroll opening with a group of friends, and Brooks Fenno Jr., and Thomas H. Adams were having a stag dinner.

Cornelia Robb

In town from Concord, N. H., for a day of shopping, Mrs. John G. Winant joined a group of friends for a cocktail at Hampshire House. She is the wife of the former Ambassador to the Court of St. James. Dining at Hampshire House were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Powers and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Stone, who have been enjoying a late season at their summer home in Oyster Harbors.

CASTING and rehearsals will soon be under way for the 100th annual production of Harvard's famous Hasty Pudding Club. The Pudding theatricals are the oldest dramatic society in the country and third oldest in the world. To celebrate the centennial the boys will take their forthcoming show on a longer tour of eastern and mid-west cities than ever before. The Cambridge performances will be in mid-December before the Christmas vacation.

Craig Gilbert, '47, William Scudder, '48 and Courtney Crandall, '46, have written the words and music for the show which is as yet unnamed but it is a period piece set in the early part of the 20th century. The show committee includes D Todd Parsons, '48, of Concord, president of the theatricals; David S. Biddle, '49, of Philadelphia, vice-president; Francis H. Cabot, Jr., '50, of Virginia, secretary; Peter V. Pool, '47, of New York production manager; and John Munroe, '46, of New York, publicity director.

NATIONAL WINE WEEK offers wonderful selections in California Wines

TIME TO ENJOY WINE

This week we California wine growers are celebrating a vintage harvest. The grapes are pressed, but it will take long for nature to turn the pure juice into wine. So the wines at stores now are wines of past vintage years.

They are now mature and ready for you to enjoy.

There are Sherry and Port for entertaining. Choice table wines, like red Burgundy and Claret and golden Sauterne. And for special occasions, fine Champagnes and Sparkling Burgundies.

It will surprise you how enjoyable good California wine can be. And how moderate. Folks find that important these days. Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market Street, San Francisco 3

Macaroni Treats

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

BEEF STEW has long been used as a favorite economy dish for limited budgets. The more tasty vegetables added, the farther it goes. A trick to make the stew go even farther is to serve it on mounds of macaroni. In this easy manner, stew for two becomes a satisfying meal for five or six.

Much of the charm of macaroni dishes like this one lies in the shapeliness of those delicate little tubes. The homemaker who always looks for the words "Made from Durum Wheat" on the label assures herself of the highest quality macaroni. But proper cooking is needed to preserve the fine characteristics of Durum wheat macaroni, for proper cooking and proper handling make it keep that firm tenderness that adds so much character to macaroni dishes.

MACARONI BEEF MEDLEY

¼ cup salad oil
1 lb. ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced carrots
3½ cups cooked tomatoes (1 No. 3 can) 1 cup diced celery
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tsp. salt; 2 tsp. chili powder
1 tbsp. salt; 3 qts. boiling water
½ lb. long macaroni

Heat salad oil in skillet. Add meat and brown well. Add onion, celery and carrots. Cook until vegetables are browned. Add tomatoes, parsley, salt and chili powder. Simmer slowly 1½ hours. Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add macaroni and let boil until macaroni is tender, about 12 minutes. Drain and rinse macaroni. Serve on platter with meat sauce. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

A delightful meal-in-one dish for a brisk day's luncheon is oxtail stew. Made with small pieces of oxtail, bouillon cubes and soup stock, elbow macaroni, carrots and peas, it is highly seasoned with peppercorns, bay leaf and onion. A crisp apple salad makes a fine menu companion for this nutritious stew.

OXTAIL STEW

1 oxtail, cut in small pieces
2 tbsp. flour 2 tbsp. fat
3 qts. water or soup stock
1 bay leaf ¼ bouillon cubes
¼ peppercorns ½ tsp. cayenne
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup diced carrot
½ cup peas ¼
2 tbsp. flour ¼ cup water

Dredge pieces of oxtail with flour. Brown in fat in large kettle. Add water or soup stock, bouillon cubes, cayenne, peppercorns and bay leaf. Simmer until tender (about 3 hours). Strain. Remove meat from bone. Dice and add to soup stock. Add onion, carrot, peas, and macaroni. Simmer 20 minutes. Blend flour and water. Add to stew. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring gently. Makes 4 servings.

Another all-in-a-dish meal, handy as a one-piece frock, is made by folding cooked elbow macaroni and whole kernel corn, whatever amounts you have at hand, into a medium-thick white sauce. If a meaty flavor is desired, fold in a half cupful of slivered salami. Pour into a casserole and sprinkle generously with grated nippy cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with a mixed vegetable salad and a fruit dessert.

YOUR CONVERSATION

"Your conversation," as has been wisely said, "is your account of yourself." Watch it . . . watch it, carefully and appraisingly.—MRS. BEECKMAN.

A STIR in New York fashion circles was caused this week when Mme. Elanora Garnett's collection . . . executed in Shanghai, where for many years she has been a leading dress designer . . . was shown to a coterie of handpicked, fashion-wise women . . . at her new Manhattan house. This two-piece daytime costume was one of those exhibited. Its rough red wool jacket with hip pockets of silver fox snugs the waistline over a full, black wool skirt. —R. M.

Pronunciation Aid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the best "American" pronunciation of the word "menu?" Three Teen-agers

The Standard American pronunciation is MEN-yu. (To be avoided is the often-heard "main-yu," which is pseudo-French.)

This Powder Box Real Joy

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT IS ONE THING to help yourself comfortably to the box of face powder as it sits calmly and prettily on the bathroom shelf . . . but quite another when it is packed for travel if, as so many people are doing, you are going places and seeing things.

It makes very little difference if the powder box spills its contents on the bathroom bowl or floor. It can be so easily and quickly wiped clean. But when the box spills powder all over your nicely-packed pretties . . . that's a dilemma that's both annoying and aggravating for it isn't always so easy to brush away powder residue from fabrics.

We've had ever so many requests recently from readers for the name of a sift-proof, seep-proof box of face powder . . . which prompts us, today, to devote the column to a well-known neat and tidy traveler.

On planes and trains . . . on luxury cruises . . . in shiny new cars . . . or even in your handbag . . . this face-powder traveler travels your box right along without spilling or leaking. That's because an air-foam seal inside the cover makes its sift-proof and seep-proof . . . keeps the powder safely inside no matter what. All you have to do is to remember to close the box with a twisting motion.

MAKES TRAVELING A JOY

Then, you can shake it up, drop it on the floor . . . and not one whiff of powder can escape if it is tightly closed. This makes traveling a great joy. For we can't always have an unopened box of powder with us every time we take a week-end or overnight trip. Yet this innovation does make it possible.

The powder itself is the traditionally fine product of the splendid house which dreamed it up. Extra clinging, it is sifted fine as silk . . . goes on like a charm . . . and comes in eight shades. And each shade is laden with the wonderful fragrance for which this house is justifiably noted.

IN MANY SHADES

Even if you are not a journeying gal . . . you'll want to carry a box in your purse for emergency, happy in the thought that you can do it without fear of "whitening" everything in your handbag.

Unquestionably you've used the powder in its regular box . . . for it is an old-timer on the market. But this traveler edition really makes headlines. It can be had in shades of ivory, light, flesh, medium, rose-beige, bronze, dark and extra dark.

For the name of this sift-proof, seep-proof box of face powder, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NO SPILLING . . . no dusting of newly cleansed clothes-pretties neatly packed in your overnight or week-end bag! Not any more! That fear has been eliminated because an understanding and far-seeing beauty house has created a sift-proof, seep-proof box of face powder. An air-foam seal inside the cover is responsible for the noteworthy achievement.

Wanders After 30 Years

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been married for the last 30 years and am the mother of three boys and a girl, all over 21. My husband and I worked for 20 years together and got along fine, but now, for the last four years, he has been going away and staying away. Once I followed him and found out he was picking a woman up on the street.

I have tried my best to put up with it and always treated him well when he returned, on account of the children. But now I have come to the point where I can't stand it any longer. I hate to break up with him, but I go around in such a daze now thinking about it that I hardly know what I am doing.

Should I break off with him and let him go his way, or should I let him keep on coming home whenever he wants to? "WORRIED."

DEAR "WORRIED":

In a situation of this kind, there are just two things a woman can do; she can either pick up and leave and work out her own life independently, or she can stay with her husband and put up with his misbehavior in the hope that some day he may come to his senses. Unfortunately, there is nothing a woman can do to change her husband's course of action. Any change must come from within himself. She cannot bring it about from the outside.

No one can make up your mind for you as to whether you want to go or stay. Since your children are grown, I assume that you do not have the problem of supporting them, but would have only yourself to look out for. And since you worked for so many years, you can perhaps do it again and in time find that you were happier away from your husband than with him.

On the other hand, if the ties of 30 years are too strong to break, then all you can do is, as I have said, wait and see if things may not take a turn for the better. In the meantime, I advise you either to take a job outside your home, or find some other outside interest that will occupy your mind and give you something else to think about besides your troubles.

Hats Completely Veiled

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE hat collections this season show that milliners have finally made up their minds about veils. It's all or nothing at all, either no veiling whatever on a hat or, if veiling is used, layers and layers of it draping a hat, swathing the face, covering the head and shoulders of a woman, hat and all, in a mist of flattery.

Milliners pull out all the stops, sparing nothing, to make the completely veiled hat story a thrilling one. They use sheer, delicate veilings in heavenly pastels to give a hat the look of sun-touched clouds in a windless blue sky.

The hat designed by Walter Florell and sketched today gets its drama from its layers of veiling. The hat is a cinnamon felt bonnet that rolls back from a curved brow brim to meet a small circular crown. The veils drop almost to the elbow.

Wedded Bliss Hits Bankroll

Marriage to a German prince brought fame and power to Clara Prentice, American railroad heiress, but the title she won failed to bring her happiness.

Passing up her many suitors in America, she married a man whose extravagant ways almost caused her to lose her fortune.

The story of "Clara Prentice—Cinderella Princess" is told in a new article of the popular "Bartered Bride" series in Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with all editions of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Music Steals Top Honors In Loew's 'Song of Love'

By PEGGY DOYLE

Latest example of the Hollywood mania for recasting famous historical characters as well as modern greats in the standard glamor mould is Metro's "Song of Love," film biography of Robert and Clara Wieck Schumann and their close friend, Johannes Brahms, now to be seen at Loew's twin theaters.

The eloquent score, with Artur Rubinstein ghosting the soundtrack for the Schumanns, Brahms and Franz Liszt, stars although it is Paul Henreid, Katharine Hepburn and Robert Walker who get the billings.

And it is Henreid, Hepburn and Walker, in period costume, to be sure, that they continue to be as they re-enact the purported love story of these musical geniuses. For, although it is the musical legacy each has left behind that make them deathless, the current biography bears down heavily on the sentimental side, is sicklied o'er with love-sickness.

The fashionably gaunt Miss Hepburn, in the efficiency-handicapping long-sleeved, floor-trailing garb that preceded the bungalow-apron, never once fooled us that she had mothered those seven strapping Schumann offsprings and tenderly reared them through the rigors of intermittent concert-touring.

Henreid, as tortured papa-composer Schumann, and Walker, more puckish than Brahms, seemed the desperate two-thirds of a triangle rather than selfless geniuses consumed by the compulsion to compose.

But, again, be reminded that the music is lovely and includes Schumann's "Traumerei," "Arabesque," "Dedication" and "Concerto in A Minor," and Brahms's "Rhapsody in G Minor" and "Cradle Song."

For the music alone, "Song of Love" is a "must hear." But, from us to you, it is time the Hollywood movie-makers did something about that occupational astigmatism they can't, you, know, see the greats for the grosses.

'The Informer' Held Over on Center Bill

The world's most honored film, "The Informer," is now in the second week of a revival engagement at the Center Theater, Victor McLaglen, who won an Oscar for his performance, is starred with Preston Foster and Margot Grahame.

The companion film is John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men."

Far East Thriller at Boston; Ella Fitzgerald on Stage

Ava Gardner, who brings on the whistles in any undergraduate audience, and Fred MacMurray, the lanky lilywhite who now specializes in heroes with a touch of larceny, are bait enough for "Singapore."

This is the adventure romance currently being played over the stage bill at the RKO Boston.

MacMurray, a dealer in "hot" pearls, caches his loot in a Lotel room and loses his girl, the darkly lovely Miss Gardner, when the Japs attack Singapore.

Spring Byington and Porter Hall, as a pair of not-too-bright tourists, teeter-totter in and out of the plot for laughs, the while MacMurray, no longer the screen's laughing-boy, plays cat-and-mouse with the police in a somber mood.

In the course of it, he learns that Ava, as a consequence of the Jap-terrorizing regime in Singapore, had suffered amnesia and married a rich planter (Roland Culver).

Following a plethora of brawls and gunplay, Miss Gardner snaps out of it. MacMurray relinquishes the "pearls" and a clinch between Ava and Fred is indicated as "The End" flashes on screen.

Ella Fitzgerald, encoring her hit rendition of "A Tisket-a-Tasket," stopped the stage show at yesterday's opening. The customers also liked her "Almost Like Being in Love," "That's My Desire" and "Lady Be Good" vocalizing.

Another headliner is Senior Wences, the ventriloquist who entertained you in "Mother Wore Tights." Francis Craig, who has won fame as a result of his recording of his own creation, "Near You," Bob Lamm, who does the vocals on the recording, is featured with him.

Those cycling experts, the Shyrettos, and the dancing team of Luvienne and Ashour round out a good bill.

'Crossfire' Continues At Keith Memorial

"Crossfire," first of several Hollywood films on the subject of native racial and religious prejudice to come out boldly and do some courageous spade-calling, continues an enormously successful run on Keith Memorial screen.

Released without any advance ballyhoo, RKO Radio's grim and genuinely absorbing reportage on the never-never topic of intolerance in these United States has drawn sensational attendance wherever it has been shown.

SCOLLAY, OLYMPIA HIT

Columbia's "Down to Earth," co-starring Rita Hayworth and Larry "Jolson" Parks, is now to be seen on the Olympia and Scollay screens. On the same bill is "Ginger," with Frank Albertson and Barbara Reed.

as a gallows. Mankind loves these macabre mementoes.

The prisoners, all high ranking Nazi ministers of state, party leaders, SS brass hats, Gestapo chiefs, worked or loafed at their whim. Some were distinguished by an air of dignity, some were brutal-faced, sullen-eyed and unwholesome thugs. As we passed, all bowed with the habitual deference of the German toward authority. These sub-masters of Europe who had drunk deep of life's elixir now drained the bitter dregs.

I visited their living quarters, conducted by the commandant, a tweedy, ruddy-faced man quick with a match for your cigaret. He treated the inmates with a politeness which annoyed Capt. Gardner, who grumbled, "dam' disgusting." But his reasons were obvious.

Some day, perhaps in the not distant future, the tables might be turned and this neck of Germany be under home rule again. Then Robert Stern and his kind might be hauled before a nationalist court and charged with "enemy collaboration" — as happened in liberated France.

So, like most of his ilk, Stern plays a middle-of-the-road game impersonally efficient enough to meet American standards, but lement enough to be okay with the inmates. For this is one of the angles of occupation which gripes the more rugged U. S. officers and soldiers—"premature" yielding of authority to Germans as rapidly as possible on the theory that they will thus learn democratic responsibility. Result, say the critics, is a new crop of German officialdom, too timid to rule along too eager to please its new master.

DINGY CUBICLES

The rooms of the prisoners are not cells in the jail sense so much as dingy cubicles with narrow cots, rough army blankets, battered wardrobe closets and plain deal tables and chairs. They are not too clean and hold a rank, musty smell offensive to the nostrils.

The men stand in chow lines and eat from metal dishes and kitchen cutlery in their own quarters. They have craft shops, a dog eared library and a tailor shop, where one of the men made a hasty dash as we entered and yanked something off the wall. I looked at it — a magazine cover of Joseph Stalin in color. I asked why he had done that. Oh, he said, with a foolish grin, it was just a joke. He was smoking an evil looking stogie as he talked, and Gardner snapped:

"Take that cigar out of your mouth."

He did with solemn alacrity. Former Kreisleiter" (county leader) said Gardner.

Wertheim had selected five or six typical German prisoners for my interrogation, and had them waiting in the prison office, high in a 15th century building that looked like a Tibetan monastery. One by one they were called in to answer my questions, through a young interpreter named Werner Burgman—a line of examination designed more to determine Nazi logic than for information.

First came Frederik Schmidt, Gauleiter of Wuerttemberg Province, a man who had held life and death authority over his people. I asked:

"Looking back, do you have any regrets for your Nazi connections?" He said: "A man cannot live one life in two manners." I asked, "Did you know of the cruelties in German concentration camps?" He said: "They were a world apart."

Did he realize that Germany impressed 12,000,000 foreign slave laborers? He said:

"We thought they were volunteers." I said: "You are an intelligent man expected to give intelligent answers." He said: "I have been too long away from the world of reality to know any other answers." Gardner wrinkled his nose. "Masters of the art of evasion. They coach each other on noncommittal replies."

HIS DUELING SCAR

Karl Engelhardt was next, an ex-president of Karlsruhe police with a rank approximating a U. S. brigadier. He was a gnarled-faced, dark-skinned, big man with a disfiguring scar across one cheek, result of his university dueling days. He spoke excellent English, and made forthright replies. Did he regard Adolf Hitler as a great man? Yes, in the beginning! When did Hitler cease to be great? When he began to make serious blunders.

It was a curious admission, but a fair example of Nazi thought. For Germany's indictment of Hitler is limited to the period when he began to lose the war—a deity while victorious, anathema when losing. Did he (Engelhardt) know of mistreatment and murder of camp prisoners? He said:

"I have read about it and seen movies. But I do not believe. Those people must have been killed by Allied air raids. It is otherwise inconceivable." Did he know about Else Koch, wife of Buchenwald's commandant, who made lampshades from prisoners' skins?

"That is fiction," he said, grimly. I assured him I had seen them personally and he replied: "Still I do not believe."

It was a candid response, typifying the general attitude of German repudiation of atrocities—a purging of the mind of what they do not wish to accept.

"Was Germany forced into war?" I asked. "Yes," he said, "by economic strangulation," adding thoughtfully, "there can only be one predominant power in Europe at a time. It was us or England." Did he regard Germany's treatment of war-conquered neighbors as just? He smiled cynically. "One can expect no justice in extremity. We here are an example." That was all.

Now came a typical Prussian Junker officer of the German General Staff, a career soldier of the old school, and an ex-attache at Nanking, China—blonde, erect, gimlet-eyed, 36. Did he think Germany would rise to fight again? He shrugged. "Who knows?" Clearly he hoped so. Did the German general staff still exist? "In theory only." What did he think we Americans were doing over here? "To exploit your economic frontiers," he said. "The only cause of war."

It was the turn of Konstantine Hierl, once Reichsleiter (National leader) of the Arbeitenstein, a kind of German CCC organization of soldier-workers

"He," grunted Wertheim, "you should have seen this fellow during war time. He was covered with gilt braid, a walking gold mine."

Now he seemed only a bowed old grandpa, mild-eyed and big-jowled. Ja! War was forced on Germany. By whom? "Fortune," he said. What fortune? The Versailles treaty in 1919, the Danzig corridor, a partition of German peoples in Czechoslovakia. Did he think the Allied tribunal at Neurnberg justified in executing Gens. Jodl, Keitel, Bruener, Rosenberg, et al., as war criminals?

"It is easy to condemn men when one writes one's own laws," he said. I asked: "Didn't Germany write its own laws during war, against all precepts of human justice." He replied: "Necessity is the original law." His logic didn't dovetail there.

LITTLE SANTA CLAUS

Walter Orlipp, Secretary of Interior for Thuringia, a little Santa Claus of a man, said: "I can only speak for myself—no," when I asked if the German people accepted war guilt. Was he conscious of German wrongs against the Jews? "History must judge that," he said vaguely.

The catechism followed the same pattern with the impression that these ex-officio Nazi minds were jelled to the same rigid mould of unregeneracy. Defeated physically, Ja! Morally and spiritually, no!

We coasted down the winding incline from Hohenasberg while the ages seemed to frown. The ancient fortress had held prisoners of all kinds and all conditions since men fought with clubs, wore wild animal skins and lived by looting their neighbors. Past Ludwigsburg to camp 77, a former German infantry barracks which now houses Nazi women prisoners of high priority—among them Hitler's confidential secretary, Christa Schroeder, a massive woman with a head sized like a hubbard squash, and a prognathous jaw. She came in clad incongruously in blue slacks, not becoming to her type of frame.

She sat with an icy stare. "These women are twice as incorrigible as the men," sighed Henry Wolfe, the American C. I. officer who used to work in the New York Film Exchange. "Do you think Hitler is still alive?" I asked Frau Schroeder. She snapped "No! From what I knew of his character he would never submit to the profanation of capture!" Profanation, forsooth—the familiar German concept of deity. Was she aware of Germany's oppression of small people? Answer—I am not politically inclined. Then why had she joined the Nazi party? Answer—It was the only one which offered a progressive program. Had she typed Hitler's private messages? Her eyes narrowed. "I made a practice of forgetting anything he dictated," she said. The past was a total blank.

Elizabeth Paul, ex-Reichsfrauenschaftsleiten (National women's leader) was singularly out of character for a No. 1 criminal. She was slim, blonde, 48, gentle-faced, with a shy wistfulness that seemed to alternate between gracious smiles and the verge of tears. Yes, Hitler was a great man. Then why did he plunge his people into such catastrophic misery? She said, "I am too small a person to know." Why are the Americans here? Surprisingly, she answered. "To right a wrong." Whose wrong? She had time to think. She said she now realized that Germany was guilty of something. She wasn't sure what. We went away in the deep gloaming. The gates closed. Behind, we left an era.

Bringing Up Father

Well, That's That!

By George McManus

MRS. JIGGS IS HAVING A MEETING-THE LADIES ARE PROTESTING THE NEW LONG-SKIRT FAD!!
I'VE ALWAYS WONDERED HOW THEY KNOW WHAT THEY ARE SAYIN'-AS THEY ALL TALK AT ONCE"
WELL-I FOR ONE WILL NOT FOLLOW THIS NEW FAD!
IT'S SIMPLY RIDICULOUS TO LENGTHEN SKIRTS!!
WHY SHOULD WE WEAR THEM JUST TO PLEASE THE DRESSMAKERS?
YES-GIRLS-WE'LL STICK TO OUR GUNS!!!
WHEN THEY SEE WE'RE NOT CHANGING-THE FAD WILL JUST DIE!!!
THEY MUST THINK WE'RE SILLY!!
MEN DON'T SEEM TO KNOW BEAUTY WHEN THEY SEE IT"

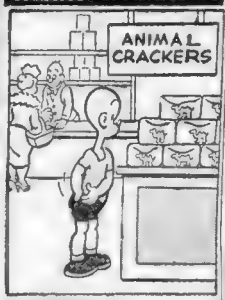
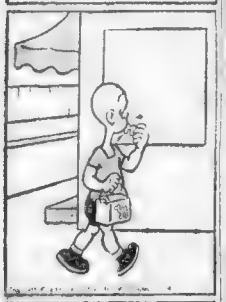
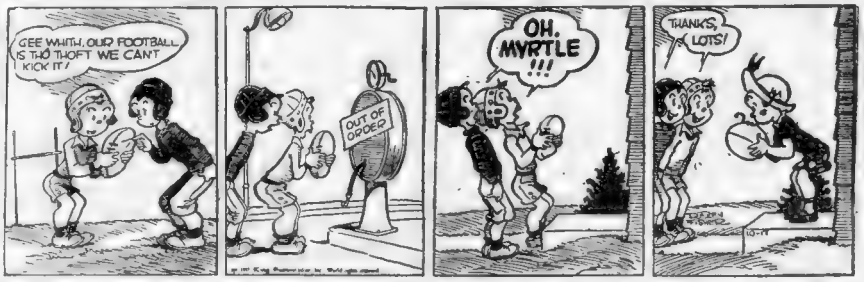
HENRY

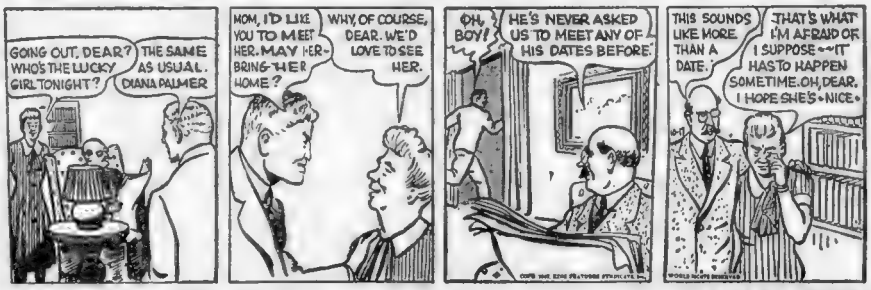




MYRTLE



THE NATION



GOING OUT, DEAR? WHO'S THE LUCKY GIRL TONIGHT?
THE SAME AS USUAL. DIANA PALMER
MOM, I'D LIKE YOU TO MEET HER. MAY HER-BRING-HER HOME?
WHY, OF COURSE, DEAR. WE'D LOVE TO SEE HER.
OH, BOY! HE'S NEVER ASKED US TO MEET ANY OF HIS DATES BEFORE.
THIS SOUNDS LIKE MORE THAN A DATE.
THAT'S WHAT I'M AFRAID OF. I SUPPOSE--IT HAS TO HAPPEN SOMETIME. OH, DEAR, I HOPE SHE'S NICE.

THINK IT OVER

QUICK! GET THE AMBULANCE--THESE MEN ARE BADLY HURT!
CALL THE VET, TOO--A COUPLE OF TI-SEE HORSES ARE LAMED!
THIS IS AWFUL--NOW'D THAT WHEEL EVER COME LOOSE?
HERE'S THE WHEEL--AND IT LOOKS TO ME AS IF THE MAIN-AXLE COTTER PIN SNAPPED OFF!
HUMPH! I THINK WE'D BETTER HAVE A TALK WITH THE WHEELWRIGHT!!

DOUBLE TROUBLE

YOU! COME BACK HERE, Y' BAD DOGGIE!
WOOF! WOOF!
YA BROKED OFF YA LEACH AN' RANNED AWAY, DIDN' YA?
OH!
WHAP!
OW-R-R!
SHAME, JEANNIE! THAT'S NO WAY TO TREAT JOHNNIE! HE'S A DEAR LITTLE SAINT!
BERNARD?
BILL HOLMAN 10-17

SECRET AGENT X-9

HE'S UNDER, NOW, DOC!
HM-MM! HE REALLY INTENDED TO HAVE THE JOB DONE, DIDN'T HE?
WELL--AREN'T YOU GOING TO SLICE?
NO! I'M CERTAIN NOW THAT THIS MAN IS AN ACCIDENTAL DOUBLE FOR PHIL CORRIGAN!
BUT HE PAID THE FIVE GRAND IN ADVANCE! HE WANTS THE JOB DONE, NO MATTER WHO HE IS!
I COULD BE WRONG, BUT I HAVE A HUNCH THAT THIS MAN WILL BE MORE VALUABLE TO US AS HE IS!

Blondie — For Practically Nothing! — By Chic Young

COOKIE -- WHY DO YOU HAVE TO SIT IN THE CORNER?
FOR SUCH A LITTLE BITTY REASON, I CAN'T EVEN REMEMBER WHY IT IS
SHE SPILLED A CAN OF PAINT I TOLD HER NOT TO TOUCH, ON THE SOFA - THEN SMEARED IT WITH A HAIRBRUSH - THEN COVERED IT WITH A CUSHION SO WE WOULDN'T SEE THE MESS
SO THAT'S WHY YOU HAVE TO SIT IN THE CORNER
YES, I REMEMBER
IT SEEMS AWFULLY UNFAIR, DOESN'T IT?

WHY, YOU BIG APE! ...YOU UNROMANTIC IDIOT! SOCKING A GIRL... OOOOH, I COULD KILL YOU!
BUT, MA'AM, I DON'T THINK I SOCKED YOU.... LAST I REMEMBER, YOU WAS TELLIN' ME TO LOOK INTO YOUR EYES ... AND THE NEXT THING I KNOW, YOU'RE ROLLING ON THE GROUND.
SHE'S YOUNG... SHE'S BEAUTIFUL ...AND SHE'S GOT ONE OF THE LOVELIEST LUMPS I'VE EVER SEEN!
HE MUST HAVE HIT HER WITH HIS HEAD WHEN HE SWOONED AT THE SIGHT OF HER. ANY COMMENTS, MISS LOVELYPOSS?
OH - SHUT UP!!
I ONLY DID IT SO I COULD PASS THE BIG TEST IN SCHOOL!

Mandrake

YOU'RE RIGHT. WE FORMED THIS WEREWOLF OUTFIT TO SCARE THE PEOPLE AWAY, SO WE COULD GET THEIR LAND.
BUT NOT BECAUSE WE WANTED THEIR RICH FARMS. FARMING'S TOO MUCH WORK! NOPE, THERE'S OCEANS OF OIL IN WOLF VALLEY--
WE FOUND OUT, THE FOLKS STILL DON'T KNOW IT. WHEN WE SCARED 'EM TO THE CITIES, MY MEN FOLLOWED 'EM--AND BOUGHT UP THEIR LAND CHEAP--
NOW THAT YOU KNOW, WE CAN'T LET YOU LIVE! TOO BAD, WE COULDA USED A SMART FELLA LIKE YOU.

Country Flavor Still Clings to Rockingham

By JACK CONWAY

A DAY AT ROCKINGHAM PARK . . . Rockingham Park has not changed much since this writer was there on his previous visit on the closing day of the fall meeting a year ago . . . It is still the same small, comfortable race track that people like because it is so different from the modern plants of steel and concrete.

Mrs. Lou Smith told me that her husband was in New York on business, which accounted for his not being at the opening of the grandstand and clubhouse to okay checks for horsemen and patrons, and to ask horsemen as they hurried along about their business what they thought of the chances of their thoroughbreds winning.

Leo O'Donnell, steward representing the horsemen, and Tommy Shehan, also a steward, were in the paddock seeing that everything was being run according to regulations . . . Tommy is already planning to go South when the meeting ends . . . He will work in the publicity office at Hialeah Park which assures newspapers he serves, good writing and intelligent stories on racing

Col. Dave Egan said he looked for Suffolk Downs to ask for 90 days of racing in 1948 . . . Chairman Harry Allen of the Masachusetts Racing Commission told this writer at the buffet supper for Bill Corum that our article a month ago, in which we quoted Allen as being ready to back Suffolk Downs with 90 days of racing if there is a racing war, resulted in his getting telephone calls from New Hampshire and Rhode Island to ask if he was in dead earnest on the matter.

Allen said he was, which places Suffolk Downs in a good fighting position if there is a knockdown racing war.

Horsemen and others were talking about Corum's appointment as executive vice president at Suffolk Downs . . . They all like Bill who will devote his time trying to get more good horses to ship to Suffolk Downs.

Corum's Chief Interest Is in Better Horses

"MY JOB will be in getting horses and acting in an advisory capacity," Corum said. "I shall not be General Manager or hold any job where I have to be at Suffolk Downs every day of the meeting.

"I shall give special consideration to the grandstand customer. I shall give him the best run he can possibly get for his money."

If our race track leaders are wise, they will avoid a racing war . . . There will be less money around next year, and a clash of dates would prove costly as Lou Smith and Judge Dooley recently found out . . . "The racing honeymoon is over!" Remember that line in our first column after returning to writing last summer? If one had sold all race track stocks short at that time, he would have had to get a special bank to hold his cash.

Mack O'Dowd very happy at the way the mutuel handle has been holding up at Rockingham . . . With no train service, luxurious Lincoln Downs does not give the New Hampshire track as much opposition as did Narragansett Park

Gov. Bob Bradford, who attended the party to Bill Corum, is also interested in getting revenue for the State which is another reason the atlk of 90 days of racing for Suffolk Downs must be taken seriously . . . Maxwell Rabb, youthful Suffolk Downs director, saw Navy service with the amphibious unit.

Believe Swamp Fever Has Been Beaten

ROCKINGHAM PARK, which during its summer meeting had more sick horses on the grounds than any other track, may soon be in the position of having more sound horses on the grounds than other tracks . . . All horses with swamp fever, including Prognosis, have been removed to a farm some distance from the track where they are being given the best of care . . . All other horses have been screened . . . By late this month the final reports will all be in, and those horses that are pronounced physically fit will be permitted to be shipped to other tracks and to farms.

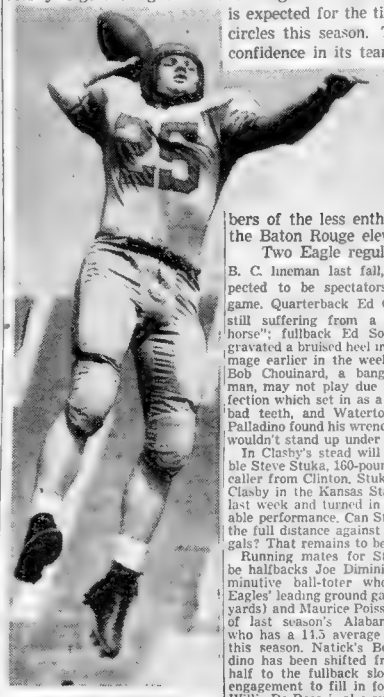
Dave Wilson quite happy as the New England racing season enters the home stretch . . . And looking ahead to a trip to Maryland before he hops merrily along to Florida . . . Dave, as usual, has had a big season in picking winners.

Jimmy Mede, who operates the Dempsey A. C. at Mechanics Building in Boston, has done well with his racing stable this season . . . Mede remarked he has Bert Lytell battling Dom Youvella of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. on Tuesday night.

There will be a delegation of horsemen journey to Boston on Monday night to take in the Callahan A. C.'s all-star show for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund . . . It is an attraction card . . . Tommy Sullivan will battle Mad Anthony Jones, Pat Brady clashes with Buddy Hayes and Gus Mell collides with Patsy Brandino in ten-rounders, while a 12-round tussle for the New England lightweight title will bring together Joey Angelo of Providence and Jackie Weber of Pawtucket.

40,000 to See B. C. Play L. S. U. at Braves Field

"Hold that Tiger!" That's the battle cry of the injury-ridden Boston College grid team which takes on its toughest opponent to date in the powerful Louisiana State University Tigers tonight under the lights at Braves Field. A banner turnout of 40,000 is expected for the tilt, heralded as one of the best in local circles this season. The student body at the Heights has confidence in its team. For the past few days the undergraduate body has been covering the campus with signs and banners: "Tame the Tigers!" "Down L. S. U.!" "L. S. U. means Let's Stay Undefeated." While optimism reigns at Chestnut Hill, members of the less enthusiastic betting gentry have installed the Baton Rouge eleven favorite in the engagement.



YELBERTON TITTLE
Gets the Eagle Eye Tonight

Two Eagle regulars, a key substitute and the leading B. C. lineman last fall, are expected to be spectators at the game. Quarterback Ed Clasby is still suffering from a "charley horse"; fullback Ed Songin aggravated a bruised heel in a scrimmage earlier in the week; center Bob Chouinard, a bangup pivot man, may not play due to an infection which set in as a result of bad teeth, and Watertown's Vic Palladino found his wrenched knee wouldn't stand up under pressure.

In Clasby's stead will be reliable Steve Stuka, 160-pound signal-caller from Clinton. Stuka spelled Clasby in the Kansas State game last week and turned in a creditable performance. Can Stuka play the full distance against the Bengals? That remains to be seen.

Running mates for Stuka will be halfbacks Joe Diminick, a diminutive ball-toter who is the Eagles' leading ground gainer (231 yards) and Maurice Poissant, hero of last season's Alabama game who has a 14.5 average per rush this season. Natick's Bob Palladino has been shifted from right half to the fullback slot for the engagement to fill in for Songin. Willie De Rosa is also expected to see plenty of service at fullback.

In the line, B. C. will have Art Spinney (195) and Stan Goode (205), ends; Ernie "Horse" Stautner (215) and John Kissell (220), tackles; Mario Gianelli (240) and Dom Papaleo (220), guards, sandwiching center Ed Kennedy (245).

The B. C. line averages 219 pounds per man while the L. S. U. average is 206 pounds. The Southerners' line, however, is a fast, rugged aggregation which is expected to give the Heightsmen plenty of trouble.

Up front, the Tigers will have Jim Loflin (205) and Abner Wimberly (201), ends; Hubert "Tank" Shurtz (230) and Holley Heard (214), tackles; Wren Worley (197) and Russ Foti (204), guards; flanking center, Ed Claunch (194).

The highly-touted Yelberton Abraham Tittle, Jr. (just call me Y. A., suh) at quarterback. The 20-year-old senior is the most feared man on the L. S. U. roster. An ironman, averaging 53 minutes per game over a two-year span, Tittle is a deadly passer, hitting his mark with uncanny accuracy and rarely the victim of an interception.

Slim Jim Cason, lithe left halfback, will open in the starting backfield with Tittle. Playing his first game of the season against Texas A & M last week, Cason was the sparkplug of L. S. U.'s victory over the Aggies. He weighs 168 pounds.

Dan Sandifer (176) is the other Bengal halfback. A three-letter holder, he's an outstanding defensive man and is used in spots as a passer. Extremely fast, Sandifer is also a member of the track team.

Lightest starter in the L. S. U. fronter, Wren Worley will have to be watched throughout the tilt. One of the best linemen in the South last season, Worley was voted All-Southern Conference by the AP last fall and was also mentioned for All-America honors.

The meetting will be the first between the two teams. L. S. U. may be well remembered in this area because of its two victories over Holy Cross over a three-year stretch. Bernie Moore, Tiger mentor, has the enviable record of never losing a game played in the East. The only eastern team to defeat a Moore-coached team came in '41 when the Cross beat the Bengals at Baton Rouge.

While a capacity turnout is expected, there are still a few rush seats available for the game.

Stressing pass defense all week Myers hopes to halt Tittle's amazing passing average. Pourous against Clemson in the opener, the Eagle pass defense stiffened somewhat against Kansas State. B. C. allowed but four completions in 21 attempts and intercepted six enemy heaves.

With Clasby out, the kicking duties will be shared among Willie De Rosa, Tom Brennan and Maurice Poissant, pride of Biddeford, Me., who will be the third right half to start this season. Bob Palladino opened against Clemson while Jim Benedetto started the Kansas State game.

Poissant has the highest rushing average (14.5 yards) picking up 87 yards in six rushes. He's also an able pass anagger and better-than-average blocker.

Three Southerners will officiate at the contest. Referee W. G. Bruner is a Mercer graduate; umpire Ray Kennedy went to Spring Hill, while linesman Al Moore is a Georgia Tech alumnus.

Fists Fly At Jamaica

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (INS) The first violence in the Jamaica race track strike was reported today when private detectives charged that a groom had been attacked by two strikers at Belmont Park.

They said that Nicholas Dillon, 39, suffered a possible concussion of the brain and a fractured nose. Dillon, who works for Trainer Thomas Mulrenan, is in Doctor's Hospital, Jamaica.

Most of the horses in the first two races were led to the post by non-striking grooms. A few were lead by owners.

An official of the track estimated that only five per cent of the grooms at Jamaica were not on duty and a count at nearby Belmont showed that only 40 of approximately 500 grooms were absent.

The horses were being moved from Belmont and Aqueduct to Jamaica by private vans. Horsemen yesterday refused to sign a blanket contract covering grooms and exercise boys.

Women's Olympic Ski Course at St. Moritz Set

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Oct. 17 (AP)—The course for the women's downhill ski race at the Olympic winter games Jan. 30 to Feb. 8 has been staked out. The 2200-meter stretch has a drop of 500 meters.

Dr. Marc Holder, Swiss member of the downhill and slalom committee, said women downhill runners would have to go through from 16 to 18 gates.

Leahy Picks LSU Over BC, 27-13

By FRANK LEAHY

If we must be hanged as a gridiron prophet, then it might as well be from a high scaffold where the cool, tricky winds of football fortunes blow. Therefore, this week we shall attempt not only to pick the winner, but also to give approximate scores in some of the major college games. Its all in fun, so why not check your guess against ours and compare the results after tomorrow's games.

Frank Leahy

Michigan 35, Northwestern 7: This is the team that caused us to sound off at the Herald-American Quarterback Club in Chicago. We said Notre Dame would welcome a chance to play the Wolverines any time, any place. That still goes. For the business at hand, however, we think Fritz Crisler's Men of Destiny (they've got me coining those phrases, too) can handle the Royal Purple just about as they see fit.

California 33, Washington State 12: Winner in four games, the Golden Bears should find the Cougars eleven hunks of honey.

Army 28, V.P.I. 0: The Cadets should start rolling offensively. Watch for some fancy running and passing.

Texas 35, Arkansas 13: Should be another wide-open scoring affair and, we hope, devoid of fistic activity among spectators.

Navy 21, Cornell 14: Navy came along fast to tie Duke. Cornell is stubborn, but we think the Middies are ready.

Georgia Tech 28, Auburn 6: Coach Bobby Dodd likes golf as well as winning football teams. And where else could he find better links than around some "Bowl" town?

Holy Cross 21, Harvard 7: That bruising defeat down in Virginia shouldn't do the Crimson any good. And Holy Cross should rebound after dropping a close 13-6 nod to tough Villanova last week.

Minnesota 13, Illinois 7: Should be a grand game to watch. But we think the Gophers' greater all-round strength will offset the Illini speed.

Pennsylvania 28, Columbia 13: Dangerous to pick against Lou Little even when stacked up against a team with Penn's supposedly great power. This should answer a lot of questions about the Red and Blue, which has a way of losing those important games.

L. S. U. 27, Boston College 13: We think the Bayou Boys are too tough, but Boston is close to our hearts and, sentimentally, if for no other reason, we hope we are wrong.

North Carolina State 26, Florida 6: Unfortunately, Florida looks prettier in technicolor movies than on the gridiron. Guess you can't have everything.

Kentucky 13, Vanderbilt 7: Kentucky's upset of Georgia should give the Colonels' Wildcats drive enough to hand Red Sanders' boys their first defeat.

Other selections: Alabama over Tennessee, Dartmouth over Brown, Duke over Maryland, Georgia over Oklahoma A. & M., Georgetown over Tulsa, Indiana over Pittsburgh, Iowa over Ohio State, Miss. State over Duquesne, Miami over Rollins, North Carolina over William & Mary, Pennsylvania over Syracuse, Princeton over Colgate, Purdue over Boston U., Rice over Southern Methodist, Tulane over Mississippi, Texas A. & M. over T. C. U., U. C. L. A. over Stanford, U. S. C. over Oregon State, Utah State over Wyoming, and Virginia over Washington & Lee.

GRID YANKS HIT ROAD FOR 2 GAMES; PLAY IN N. Y. SUNDAY

The Boston Yanks hit the road for the next two weeks visiting the New York Giants at Polo Grounds Sunday and then traveling to Chicago to tangle with the undefeated Cardinals.

At this moment, though, the Yanks are interested in the Giants only. The Boston outfit realizes that the victoryless Giants will be at their peak to get away on the winning trail in their first home game of the year, but the Yanks also want that first triumph badly enough to battle the Giants right down to the wire for that verdict.

Here in Boston last month, the two teams fought to a savage 7-7 tie and the Yanks felt they should have won that one.

They'll all be fit for Sunday except for Don Deeks, reserve tackle, who is out for at least another week with a bad shoulder. Even Hal Crisler, who has been in bad condition for six weeks, is finally ready to go and he'll start against the Giants. It will be Don Currivan and Crisler on the wings; Carroll Vogelaar and Rocco Canale at the tackles; Johnny Badaczewski and Fritz Barzilauskas at the guards; and Joe Domanovich at center. Paul Governali will be under the center, Joe Golding and Monk Maznicki at the halfbacks, with Rudy Romboli at fullback.

Shift Huskies' Backfield For Game With Bates

Northeastern goes into battle short on odds but high in hopes of a victory over Bates' Bobcats, tomorrow afternoon at Huntington Field, Kent st., Brookline.

Coach Johnny Grinnell's squad will have to overcome the effects of half a dozen or so injuries. Out of the game will be John Conroy of Brookline, sophomore quarterback, and big Ed Belforti of Framingham, center who has done notable work the past two Saturdays. Appearing for the absent regulars are Jimmy Orphanos of Lynn calling the plays and Larry Edgate of Brighton in place of Belforti.

Backfield starters have been changed again. Bob McIntyre, originally scheduled for right halfback, and "Big Syd" Von Euw, named for starting fullback, have swapped positions for this week's game. George Lucas remains at left half.

Reserves will take part in the backfield action. With Guido Barbieri in a doubtful condition as fullback speller, Grinnel expects to use Hal Shuman in that capacity. Sam Musumeci and Jim Douglas will do their share of replacement duty in the other back spots.

Veteran linemen, though at present not in peak physical shape, will open in all positions except the mid-spot. Grinnell plans to start with ends Don Kerivan and Frank Mondano, tackles Nelson Carpenter and Bob Hall, and guards John Nason and Sid Glick. A probable roving substitute will be John Curley of Mattapan. These past weeks he has developed into a reliable kicker and defensive performer, and last year was a reserve guard. Grinnell plans to use him freely against the Bobcats.

B. U. at Peak for Injury-Riddled Purdue

Although "Buff" Donelli's Terriers will be a two touchdown underdog when they trot out on the Fenway Park gridiron tomorrow to meet the Purdue Boilermakers, the Scarlet and White squad is at its highest pitch since the Harvard game.

The Terriers will be in top physical condition for the tilt, which should give them some advantage over the badly riddled Purdue eleven.

Four of the Boilermaker starters were still not certain of seeing action, and Coach Stu Holcomb might find it necessary to dig deep down into his reserves to fill the gaps.

The lone Terrier casualty is Art Boyle, highly touted defensive center. The Charlestown lad has been wearing a cast on his injured wrist, but doctors have covered the plaster with a rubber spong protector similar to the one Al Stewart wore in the past two games. The converted tackle is expected to be available for limited action.

Bob DeMoss, sensational Purdue passer, will probably be playing with his left arm strapped inside, as a result of a shoulderoperation in the Purdue-Notre Dame contest. This will be nothing new to the "Big Nine" signal leader, for he played the way almost all of last season.

Coach "Buff" Donelli indicated that he intends to use his second string backfield much as possible. Billy Tighe, starting quarterback sub, impressed the linemen with his ball handling and passing in the Mohn and N. Y. U. tilts, and he will be able to give John Toner a much needed rest.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected to be on hand for the game, despite the Harvard-Holy Cross tussle in the Stadium. It will be homecoming day for the BU squad, but the Purdue Eastern Alumni will also have their own cheering section.

Coach Donelli has been somewhat alarmed by the poor brand of kicking which the Terriers have displayed in their games to date, so Bob Hatch and John Toner have been going through long punting drills.

Eve Dorr is still trying to regain his '46 form, but for some strange reason, the Scituate lad has never looked impressive at Fenway Park.

Tomorrow's tilt brings back memories of the 1929 East-West game when Purdue's "Fest Welch locked horns with Walt Holmes, former BU coach . . . A crowd welcoming committee will be on hand to greet the Purdue team when they arrive in Boston this afternoon, and it is hoped that they will receive a better reception than was accorded by the N. Y. U.

Holy Cross Should Belt Harvard

By BILL GRIMES

Starting with that B. C.-L. S. U. classic tonight at Braves Field, there are enough great football games listed for the week-end to satisfy the hungriest of gridiron satellites. In fact, right here in this immediate vicinity, Harvard will meet Holy Cross (on) should I say Dick Harlow will take on John "Ox" DaGrosa?); Boston University will celebrate Homecoming Day at Fenway Park playing the Purdue Boilermakers, and Northeastern will tackle Coach "Ducky" Pond's Bates Bobcats in Brookline.

The Crusaders should keep John Harvard in the defeat column. They'll enter the Stadium with three stiff contests under their belts. They opened the season with a scoreless tie against Dartmouth. Then they knocked off a strong Temple club only to fumble eight times and dropped a decision to Villanova last week.

Just what the Terriers will do against the Purdue Boilermakers remains to be seen. "Buff" Donelli has performed a miracle with the B. U. squad, but he hasn't had the time nor the material to expect him to beat a squad which took Ohio State over the jumps and outfought and outplayed Notre Dame. However, as long as the B. U. first varsity is intact, the Boilermakers will have a battle on their hands.

The Bobcats from Bates have too many sharp claws for the Northeastern Huskies. Coach Herb Gallagher has been working on a defense which he hopes will at least slow Art Blanchard, the ex-Arlington High star, down to a walk. If the Huskies are able to keep Blanchard under control, the defeat shouldn't be too humiliating.

Although the Dartmouth-Brown game may not attract a capacity gathering to Hanover, N. H., that contest could be a hum-dinger. The Bruins were trounced by Princeton and Penn did a job on the Big Green.

Because the Fordham-Rutgers game is the only New York attraction, the Gotham fans will migrate to New Haven and sit in on the Yale-Wisconsin clash. The Badgers were knocked off by California last week but the Elis haven't been tied or beaten this season.

In the New England small college world, Tufts will be at Rochester, Amherst at Colby, Bowdoin at Williams, Connecticut at Maine, Rhode Island at Mass. State, New Hampshire at Springfield, Norwich at Vermont, Middlebury at Coast Guard, Trinity at Hobart, Swarthmore at Wesleyan and A.I.C. at W.P.I.

The Michigan - Northwestern game is the major "Big Nine" contest with the Wolverines favored to remain in the win column. Notre Dame, which wasn't too impressive against Purdue, is listed for a set-to with Nebraska, and the Minnesota Gophers will endeavor to show the world that Ray Eliot's Fightin' Illini is not unbeatable.

The Vanderbilt-Kentucky battle, which will be fought at Nashville, Tenn., should be a thriller. The Commodores have worked over Northwestern, Alabama and Mississippi and are a serious threat to win the Southeastern Conference and the Kentucky Wildcats moved into the picture last week by defeating Georgia.

The Southeastern Conference die-hard fans rate the Tennessee-Alabama as THE game of the morrow, despite the fact that the Vols and the Crimson Tide have been kicked around all fall.

Hub Proves It's Still Good Football City

By HUCK FINNEGAN

BC expects to play Louisiana State before a capacity crowd of 40,000 at Braves Field tonight; Harvard and HC will play to 35,000 in the Stadium tomorrow, and BU expects a crowd of 20,000 to sit in on its game with Purdue at Fenway Park at the same time. Boston's still a fine football city . . . Ed Clasby can pass, despite his injury, and he may be used on offense against the southerners. Jim Benedetto will be replaced by Maurice Poissant, a speedy fellow who made the "play of the night" against Kansas State—a one-handed, runing catch of a Stuka aerial that he converted into a touchdown.

It is worth noting that Rice, though beaten, scored two touchdowns on LSU, that Texas A. and M., though beaten did likewise and that Georgia scored five touchdowns against the Bayou Bengals. Thus, BC should be able to score because they have an offense second to none. Question is: Can they hold Yelberton Abraham Tittle & Co. to fewer points than they register themselves? It promises to be an exciting, high-scoring game.

Note, too, that Purdue is vulnerable to a scoring team, and BU can score. Wisconsin beat the Boilermakers 32-14, Ohio State scored three TD's while losing 24-20, and Notre Dame scored three TD's. Purdue is expected to beat BU handily but may have to do it late in the game after their superior manpower wears down Donelli's men . . . Bob Woodworth, Purdue publicist, says Harry Szulborski is "no Pest Welch. Why, Harry weighs only 169. Welch was well above 200."

Purdue's only doubtful starter is fullback Jack Millito, who injured a knee against ND last week. "If he can't make it, George Papach or little Bob Agnew will take over. Papach is a fine punter. Millito shines on defense" . . . The Boilermakers planned to work out at Fenway Park this afternoon . . . Art Haverstock, Purdue guard, has a perfect record of six conversions and one field goal (vs. Ohio State) in seven tries. In addition, he is a "distinguished student," highest scholastic rating recognized by Purdue, an engineering institution . . . Szulborski has averaged 5.52 yards on each of his 42 carries against Wisconsin, Ohio State and Notre Dame. Remember when Chicago used to boast about "Five Yards" McCarthy? . . . Szulborski is tied for the conference lead with George Taliaferro of Indiana.

Bob De Moss' seven completed passes against Notre Dame all went to different receivers—Szulborski, Adams, Bushnell, Grimenstein, Papach, Bassett and Agnew. That indicates Purdue's passing attack is well-varied. De Moss has completed 14 of 36 passes for a net gain of 174 yards . . . Purdue alumni will hold a reunion at Kenmore Hotel tomorrow night . . . Purdue hasn't been blanked in its last 10 games.

BU is in good trim for the game, center Art Boyle alone being under par. "But he'll be able to play on defense," says Donelli.

22,000 to See Everett vs. Classical

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It's only fitting that the Everett-Lynn Classical football game of the season should have the stage entirely to itself tomorrow night but meanwhile the other schoolboy elevens, very much in the chase for Eastern supremacy, will be staging the usual hurricane activity in another lively week-end.

There'll be a bulging 22,000 fans at Manning Bowl, Lynn, for this classic of the 1947 campaign and for the first time, in two years, the home team might very well be the underdog.

Everett offered little consolation to opposing scouts in chalking up four in a row by impressive margins that found the Crimson T working mainly on straight T plays. There's been little to indicate whether qb Bill Gochis is a good passer or not. And when Coach Dennie Gildea can send his team roaring through Turners Falls, Arlington, Somerville and then Salem without a hint of deception, then Everett must certainly have it.

There was no hiding the power of the Everett line. There was no hiding the smashing power plays that sent Bob Merola banging through a line. There was little to report when the Tide operated strictly on hand-off plays from Gochis.

As the visiting club and the undefeated club, the pressure will be on Everett.

Classical has slipped (over Peabody) so that its chances of climbing to the championship must be regarded as dimmer. Still, they have the opportunity to regain the top rung in mathematical ratings in Class A.

The player on the spot will be qb Harry Agganis, the Mr. Schoolboy of the grid ranks, whose southpaw pitching and all round generalship has lifted him to the No. 1 position in schoolboy circles. The entire Lynn offensive is wrapped around his passing accuracy to such capable receivers as George Bullard, Nil Strom, Vic Posc and Paul Pitman. He'll be the particular objective of the crashing Everett linemen.

Both teams will score. It will be an issue whether the Everett line will crack down the Lynn backfield.

They're the headliners but earlier on the schedule, Medford will be attempting to continue its undefeated gait against the 1946 titlist, Melrose, in a meeting at the new Melrose field tomorrow afternoon.

LOUISIANA FAVORED OVER B. C

Horseplay—Ray Collins, Louisiana State tackle who is expected to be pretty "hot" on the Braves Field gridiron tonight against Boston College, has the heat put on him, in the form of a hotfoot, by a teammate, Russ Forti, a guard, while napping in the lobby of the Kenmore. See right...

Louisiana Favored to Beat Eagle Gridders

There will be close to 5000 rush seat tickets for the left field bleachers and the right field jury box on sale at Braves Field tonight for the Boston College football meeting with Louisiana State (8:30 p. m.).

Sale of these remaining seats will assure a crowd of 40,000 as the Eagles of Chestnut Hill attempt to keep their undefeated record alive.

BC was the underdog for the first time this season by 6½ points. Possibly this was determined by the loss of two keymen in the Eagles' offensive—quarterback Ed Clasby and fullback Ed Songin. Clasby, late today, was listed as "definitely" out while Songin may see some service.

Steve Stuka, a starter against Kansas State last week, will take over the slot in the T formation while Bob Palladino will be at fullback.

Object of the Eagles' defensive eye will be Yelberton iTttle, 20-year-old mainstay of the LSU backfield and a passing ace with uncanny accuracy.

Cornell Paints Navy's Chief

ANNAPOLIS Md. Oct. 17 (AP)—Old Chief Tecumseh, a statue facing the midshipmen's dormitory at the Navy Academy, bore red paint today splished on presumably by Cornell supporters as "magic" for victory in the football contest tomorrow with Navy at Ithaca.

A Navy spokesman said that the visitors were not apprehended, and apparently made the paint-daubing attack during the night.

Near Tecumseh in white paint on benches was printed "Cornell Beat Navy," and near the sea wall a wished for score "Cornell 100, Navy 0."

The Navy said economy cuts had permitted only two roving guards for the entire academy campus and adjoining housing, so it would be comparatively simple for the visitors to move about undetected.

Air Attack Planned By Crusaders

WORCESTER, Oct. 17 (AP)—Judging from recent workouts, the Holy Cross Crusaders will fill the air with passes against Harvard in the Stadium.

Coach "Ox" DaGrosa has devoted most of this week's working time to his aerial attack, with Walt Brennan, Gene DeFilippo, Ray Ball and Walt Sheridan alternating on the starting end.

Regular wingers Bob Barton and Tom Kelliher continue uncertain. The former has a rib injury and the latter, down with a heavy cold, remained in the college infirmary until yesterday.

Sandy Orr Sidelined Remander of Season

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct (AP)—Sandy Orr, a senio back who had won a starti signment in Saturday's B game, is out of action for t mainder of the season.

He suffered a fractured l during yesterday's practice year he was sidelined by i before the opening game.
